

THE Senate vote on the World Court was 76 to 17, or, counting the three senators absent and paired, 78 to 18. This is just four and a third to one. It included both senators from the states of Indiana, Minnesota, Missouri, North Dakota and Oklahoma, and one each from California, Idaho, Iowa, Maine, New Hampshire, South Carolina, Washington and Wisconsin. Assigning to each senator half as many votes as there are Congress districts in his state, the vote, on the House of Representatives apportionment, would be 859 to 76, or nearly five to one. However, since the House itself had already approved the Court by eleven to one, it is evident that in the judgment of their direct representatives the people were even more nearly unanimous than the Senate.

IF THIS admittedly small step in international co-operation was really as dangerous as its opponents pretended surely more than eighteen senators would have found it out, after three years' cogitation. If there were really any occasion to alarm the people, surely the representatives of more than one-eleventh of them in one House, or of more than one-fifth in the other, would have been affected by it. Or, if we say that representation is unrepresentative, and does not represent, we have got along pretty contentedly under it for a century and a half, even including the Revolution, which it is asserted only one-third of the people favored, while one-third were indifferent and the other third hostile. Certainly the articulate part of American opinion on this Court proposal has been quite as decisive as the vote of its representatives.

NOW the Senate is itself challenged by a question of its own organization. Demonstrably the group of irreconcilable opponents to progressive foreign policy is less than a fourth of the Senate and stands for an even smaller fraction of the people. Yet this numerically insignificant group is, by vote of the Senate itself, in complete control of its Committee on Foreign Relations. That committee locked up the World Court resolution for three years, denying the Senate the opportunity even to consider it, and the same group then undertook by physical obstruction to prevent the Senate from taking a vote which it was prepared to carry by over four to one.

Any future proposal of foreign policy must first pass the ordeal of that same misrepresentative committee. Between the President, to whom the Constitution gives the initiative in foreign policy, and the Senate, which has no voice without the committee, the Senate itself has imposed a committee dominated by the most desperate opponents of the policy of both. No system more misrepresentative, more fatal to efficiency and to that co-operation which the Constitution contemplates, could possibly be conceived. The Senate, having advertised this preposterous situation to the world, must now remedy it or take the responsibility of continuing it.

CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW, sensing the "era of good feeling," joyously proposes Calvin Coolidge and Al Smith as "President and Vice-President of the Republican and Democratic parties." It is a good ticket. The only trouble is that the Democratic half of it, the Democratic half of it, there is no quarrel between the Republican and Democratic parties. They are co-operating cordially at Washington, and will continue to do so until the spectre of the next election reminds them to set up a sham battle. But there is desperate warfare between the two halves of the Democratic party and complete disagreement between orthodox Republicans and their insurgent faction. The Republicans are better disciplined. Their minority will accept the Coolidge and Al Smith ticket. The majority proposes it. But the half of the Democratic party which alone represents habitually Democratic electoral votes froths at the mouth at the very mention of the name of Al Smith. It would be as little likely to accept him as he would be to accept second place. Chauncey's joke is too good to be true.

PROFESSOR MAY, of the University of California, says that England is ahead of the United States in the establishment of justice and analogous functions of government, but that America is ahead in health, housing, playgrounds, and other modern improvements.

That is because the English, except for their avowed Socialist minority, have always been individualists. They practice what we preach. They really believe that it is each man's business to take care of himself, and that he has a right to do as he pleases, as long as he does not interfere with other people doing the same. The English really let each other alone, in small matters and in great. In their crowded island, they have had to learn to respect even privacy and individuality, two things we never intend to recognize. They have carried individualism to its logical conclusion. And in consequence, they have had to mitigate their logic by allowing their Socialists to overlay it with all sorts of dotes and compulsory collectivism for which we would never stand. We have the advantage of confining our individualism to phrase-making. We preach its theories, and then practice whatever the circumstances call for. In consequence, we have done very well many things that our British cousins have not even attempted. But they have done much better the simple, old-fashioned things which we have hopelessly mauled.

NOW comes the revenue bill, which will get passed somehow in time to save this year's taxes.

THE HEAVIEST RAIN in years fell in Orange county and Southern California over the week-end, bringing broad smiles to the faces of fruit growers, ranchers and truck gardeners.

The ordinary rain in Orange county is described as a "million dollar" rain," said A. M. Stanley, secretary-manager of the Orange County Farm Bureau. "If the ordinary rain is a million dollar shower, this rain must be worth at least 10 million dollars."

County Horticultural Commissioner A. A. Brook described the rain as "the most wonderful thing in a long, long time." The hay and grain crops will be given a good start, the ground will be soaked in the walnut and citrus orchards, postponing further irrigation, the citrus fruits will be washed from the trees, he said.

Newport harbor had the heaviest precipitation, reports gathered by the Register indicated. Antares, a government weather observer, said the harbor gauge showed 1.76 inches for the storm. El Toro was next in the list, with 1.59 inches registered on the gauge at the Moulton ranch.

Santa Ana had 1.15 inches, according to the report of Hill and Son. The total for the season in Santa Ana is 4.71, compared to 2.43 inches at this time last year.

Although city streets were flooded, no material damage of any sort had been reported today.

MORE RAIN FOR SOUTHLAND FORECAST
LOS ANGELES, Feb. 1.—More rain was forecast for Southern California today, after 26 hours of the heaviest drenching in four years.

The U. S. weather bureau here predicts the Southland will have unsettled and intermittent showers for several more days. The downpour will not be nearly as heavy, however, as it was over the week-end, according to Col. H. B. Hersey, local weather chief.

A drought of two months was relieved by the drenching rains, heaviest since the record rainfall of four years ago.

Farmers rejoiced. The storm was valued at millions of dollars to the growers.

Gale Hampers Shipping
The rains were accompanied by a stiff gale at harbor points. Shipping was hampered for a short time, but there were no mishaps.

HE'S INFIDEL
Luther Burbank, "plant wizard," who yesterday, speaking from the pulpit of the First Congregational church, San Francisco, reiterated his much discussed statement that he is an infidel.

BURBANK AGAIN DECLARES THAT HE IS INFIDEL

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—Luther Burbank's declaration that he is an "infidel" was more widely discussed than ever here today, following the scientist's Sunday appearance in the pulpit of the First Congregational church.

Before an audience which braved a pouring rain to jam the church, with hundreds turned away, Burbank reiterated his recent statement that he did not "want to have anything to do with a God who would send people to a burning hell."

"I nominate myself as an infidel as a challenge to those who are asleep," the naturalist said. "The word is harmless if properly used. 'I am a lover of man and Christ as a man and His work; and all things that help humanity. But nevertheless, just as He was an infidel then, I am an infidel today.'"

"If my words have awakened thoughts in narrow bigots and petrified hypocrites, they have done their appointed work."

MITCHELL GIVEN ARMY FREEDOM

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Col. William Mitchell, air service critic, was formally notified at noon today of the acceptance of his resignation from the army and he became free from the obligations of obedience to army orders for the first time in 28 years.

Mitchell was summoned to headquarters of the district of Washington, his last response to orders, and was handed a copy of general orders gazetted his resignation by Maj. Eugene Householder, adjutant of the district.

Troops Put On Guard at Negro Trial

(By United Press)
LEXINGTON, Ky., Feb. 1.—With the growing threat of violence hanging over Lexington, 1000 National Guard troops moved secretly into the city today, the eve of the trial of Edward Harris, negro.

Harris stands accused of murdering Clarence Bryant and his two children, and of attacking Mrs. Bryant.

The guard includes eight infantry companies, two machine-gun squadrons and a tank company.

Neutral zones are marked off in the city. Beyond these barriers, no one may pass without a military pass.

The city is closed against visitors and a cordon stretches around four squares surrounding the courthouse.

Harris is to be brought here secretly from Frankfort reformatory, 50 miles away, under heavy guard, for trial tomorrow. He has been imprisoned at Frankfort since his capture and confession.

REED BARES PLAN FOR COURT FIGHT

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 1.—The battalion of death, composed of senate irreconcilables, will carry its fight on the world court to the nation and will organize local chapters in the country, according to Senator James Reed, Democrat, Missouri.

Senator Reed, who is here at his home for a few days, revealed plans of the irreconcilables to carry the court fight to the people.

A never-yielding fight will be conducted, he said, until the senate withdrew America's adhesion to the court.

Senator Borah, Idaho, and Reed are the leaders of the group. They plan an organization, non-political in makeup, whose purpose would be the election of senators who would combat the court.

Once the people understand the gravity of this thing," Reed said, "the senate, or a new one, will take us out again."

The court is "intolerable, revolutionary and disloyal," according to the Missouri senator, and the interests of the country are jeopardized by the court. "The court would place the destiny of the nation in the hands of foreigners," he stated.

FLEET SAILS FOR CANAL MANEUVERS

SAN PEDRO, Feb. 1.—The U. S. battle fleet heaved anchor today, and set sail for two months of maneuvers in Panama canal waters.

The fighting craft got underway before dawn, the hoarse notes of their giant sirens, and a two-mile-long streak of port lights, signaling the leave-taking.

Nine dreadnaughts and more than a score of naval auxiliaries, tenders and submarines comprised the department armada.

The fleet for the first time in years sailed away without any ceremonies. Naval orders prohibited any celebration, and there was no one at the harbor but a handful of beach hands and newspapermen.

The two months in Panama waters will be devoted to tactical exercises in conjunction with the Atlantic scouting fleet.

Maneuvers will be held enroute to Panama and on the return.

Two Tugs Escape Ice Floe In Lake

MUSKEGON, Mich., Feb. 1.—The two fishing tugs, Helen N. and Indian, today were safely within the harbor here, after four and one-half days spent locked in an ice floe in Lake Michigan.

First to arrive was the Indian, which came in Sunday under her own power, bearing Martin Jensen and William Vettermeier, who had been aboard since Wednesday.

After stocking up with additional coal and manned by a fresh crew, the Indian struck out into the lake again, located the rudderless Helen N., 30 miles north of here, and towed her into port early today.

NEW INQUIRY IN ALUMINUM CASE SOUGHT

WALSH EXPRESSES DOUBT AS TO VIGOR AND GOOD FAITH OF JUSTICE DEPARTMENT
SARGENT IS SCORED
Montana Senator's Report Asserts Sargent Should Known More on Subject

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 1.—Stating that evidence so far adduced showed doubts as to the "vigor and good faith of the department of justice," Senator Thomas J. Walsh, Democrat, Montana, today reported to the senate judiciary committee that it should conduct a further inquiry into whether the department used due diligence in handling the case of the Aluminum Company of America.

Upon a motion by Senator King, Utah, Democrat, to adopt the report at once, the committee voted to hold a special meeting Thursday, when it will take the matter up in detail.

The Walsh report was severely critical of Attorney General Sargent's conduct of the department's investigation so far, and stated that further inquiry to ascertain all the facts was warranted.

Should Have Known More
Sargent should have known more about the case than he revealed in testimony before the committee, said Walsh, who conducted the committee's investigation.

The report suggested that the federal trade commission be retained to furnish the committee with all evidence in its possession for conducting a new inquiry and the senate be asked for authority to conduct the probe.

Sargent today submitted an informal opinion in a letter to the senate, stating that the federal trade commission was within its rights in withholding evidence in the aluminum case and that, while the justice department is powerless to force its production, congress may perhaps legally do so.

Refuses Formal Opinion
The information was asked in a senate resolution introduced by Walsh when he started his investigation of the case. Although refusing a formal opinion on the ground that the statutes do not contemplate their rendition by the attorney general to congress, he volunteered an informal one. The law provides that the commission be required to furnish the justice department only with its "findings and recommendations," not its evidence, Sargent said. He suggested, however, that the statutes indicated congress had a right to ask production of its evidence.

DUTCH CREW TAKEN FROM SINKING SHIP

Liner Westphalia Proceeds To New York After Saving Sailors on Freighter
SEAS MOUNTAIN HIGH
Norwegian Vessel Dubwad Calls for Help When Imperiled by Ocean Gale

(By United Press)
NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—The crew of another sinking vessel, the Dutch freighter Alkaid, has been snatched from the gale-lashed waters of the Atlantic, according to messages reaching the offices of the Hamburg-American line near here today.

Captain Graaf, of the Westphalia, reported that all the crew were successfully taken off after a 20-hour vigil. With the rescued men, about 25 in number, the Westphalia is proceeding to New York, expecting to dock here on Thursday, unless further delayed by storms.

Storms which have whipped the Atlantic into continuous fury for a week have not abated and today the crackle of the radio was telling of more ships in distress and of more havoc wrought to shipping.

Two Call for Help
During the night the Norwegian steamer Dubwad and the Dutch freighter Alkaid both called for help from mid-Atlantic.

In the meantime, ships coming into port continued to tell of struggles against seemingly mountain high seas. The liner Olympia radioed from midocean that storms and gales were delaying her, and a tug towed into port the five-masted schooner "Fright," her winches wrecked and her steering gear disabled, after hours of helplessness before the storm.

The freighter Dubwad was reported from Halifax as having called for help, saying she was in a sinking condition in midocean. The freighter West Inskip at midnight was reported 177 miles from her and had picked up the call for help, turning from her course and plowing at full speed to the assistance of the disabled vessel.

Alkaid in Serious Condition
The Alkaid was reported by the Radio Corporation of America in trouble about 1000 miles from Cape Race, with the Hamburg-American liner Westphalia standing by. Its condition was reported serious, but the crew later was rescued.

The anchor liner Caledonia arrived yesterday and reported that on its trip it had picked up messages from five different vessels reporting minor troubles. Chief interest today centered around the fate of the Dubwad, bound for Boston from England.

SIX SURVIVORS OF FREIGHTER LANDED

QUEENSTOWN, Feb. 1.—A modest German skipper, Captain Wurpts, of the Nord Deutscher Lloyd liner Bremen, came out here of the screaming oceans into port here early today to put ashore six men he had saved from death aboard the now sunken British freighter Laristan.

"I don't require any thanks," he told a welcoming delegation. "I only did my duty and carried out the rules of comradeship of the sea."

At this time he put ashore the six survivors of the Laristan, which was wrecked off the coast of Ireland.

The six men put ashore here were James Jones, William Phillips, Michael McCann, William Cain, Thomas Lazenby and a man named Bartholomew.

"We ran into a 75-mile hurricane," McCann explained, "and the heavy seas smashed our boats. All the bulkheads and hatches except one also were smashed, causing the vessel to ship a lot of water."

Wurpts told the United Press that he had kept at his task while wind and snow raged, until finally the water was strewn with doors, staircases and other wreckage which told the tragic story that the Laristan had gone down.

"I regret very much that our continued efforts to save the remainder

YOUTH IS SLAIN AT PARTY; 5 QUIZZED

SAN BERNARDINO, Feb. 1.—Five Los Angeles youths, including a Communist, were questioned by authorities here today in connection with the fatal shooting of Carl Weaver, 22.

Weaver was killed during a weekend mountain cabin party, according to officers.

The young men held are Clarence A. Gallier, 25, George Opp, 28, and Wilbur Opp, 26.

The party motored here from Los Angeles late Friday night. When Weaver's body was found Sunday in the wreckage of an automobile on Deep Creek road, it was revealed he had been shot through the head.

ANOTHER STORM APPROACHES CALIFORNIA.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—Another storm is sweeping toward California and indications are that it will bring with it as much rain as the one just ended, according to the U. S. weather bureau today.

The coming rain is expected to arrive here the middle of the week and will be general for the state. The forecast for tomorrow is for rain in northern California, with probable occasional showers in other sections. By Wednesday, the second big storm of the season should be here, weather forecasters reported.

During the last three days, the state received the heaviest rainfall of the season, Santa Rosa leading with 8.18 inches since January 23. Red Bluff was second, with 6.02 inches, and Chico third, with 5.50 inches. The precipitation at other points was:

San Francisco, 4.87; Colusa, 4.07; Eureka, 2.53; Fresno, .50; Lindsay, .87; Merced, 1.82; Orland, 4.82; Paso Robles, 2.62; Rocklin, 4.02; Sacramento, 3.04, and San Jose, 2.74.

Snow fell in the mountains in proportion with the rains which soaked the lowlands. At the summit of the Sierras, 11 inches of snow fell, bringing the total at that point to 32 inches.

KING DESIRES TO THANK CAPTAIN

LONDON, Feb. 1.—The king, it was semi-officially learned today, wishes personally to express his thanks to Captain Fried, of the President Roosevelt, for his daring rescue of the Antiope crew at sea. If Fried cannot come to London—and it is likely he cannot—the king is desirous of having the thanks transmitted to him and he would like, too, to confer a "suitable decoration" upon Fried's brave crew members.

M'CAMANT SPURNED

JUDGE M'CAMANT

PASADENA, Feb. 1.—The Lincoln club of Pasadena, today drew its invitation to Judge Wallace M'Camant, Oregon, to be speaker of the day here on February 12.

M'Camant's nomination to a northwest judgeship is under fire of U. S. senate progressives in Washington, D. C.

Montville Flowers, vice president of the local club, sent the following telegram to Dr. Horace Ellis, Chicago, chairman of the speakers' bureau of the Republican National committee:

"In view of statements made by Judge M'Camant before a senate committee to the effect that Roosevelt was not a good American, the Lincoln club of Pasadena, desires to withdraw its invitation to have him speak here on February 12."

Flowers said he had asked the Republican organization to designate another speaker for the local Lincoln club address. Former Gov. W. L. Harding, of Iowa, was requested to replace Judge M'Camant.

Giant Ornaments
Are Now In Style

PARIS, Feb. 1.—Massiveness is now the criterion of up-to-the-minute jewelry. The long pearl necklace, without which no smart woman dared to show herself in public only a short time ago, has given way to a huge chain, resembling in everything but weight the kind of ornament worn by slaves thousands of years ago.

The WELL-DRESSED MAN
By BEAUNASH
Correct Clothes To Meet The Obligation Of Every Occasion

EVERY OCCASION HAS ITS GLOVE
Let your eye dart along a row of feet, and you can tell tolerably well by their shoes what types of men the wearers are. The same thing is true of gloves. Being one of those articles of wear that are deemed of but slight consequence, they are an almost un-falling index to the character of the individual. Your wardrobe of gloves should be planned and acquired just the same as any other article of dress, from hats to shoes. Buy for a purpose. Own enough gloves to wear upon different occasions and for separate uses. Do not toss them carelessly aside after wearing. Flatten out the palm and fingers and lay the gloves in a drawer.

Select the type you wear according to the weather, that is, heavy or light. Select the shade you wear according to the controlling color theme of your turnout. And—ten enthusiastic fingers will applaud your judgment.

To most of us, a glove is only a glove, just as a horse is only a horse. However, there's a world of difference between a ragman's nag and a thoroughbred. There is just as much difference between a shoddy glove and a superior one, for that envelope of leather, if well made, is a thoroughbred, as are all things fashioned of fine leather.

Some years ago, a vogue sprang up for wearing knitted gloves, as they do abroad, but Americans considered them too bulky and clumsy for every-day use. However, this style is on the brink of reviving in favor and many are already seen. Leather gloves with fur, flannel or fleece linings are admirable for colder weather. Often, the linings are detachable, forming two-in-one. Buckskin gloves are sometimes rabbit-lined. Capeskin gloves may be had in tan lined with lamb's wool or cashmere.

The gloves sketched here are of sturdy pigskin, though the pebbled or mottled grain of the leather cannot be reproduced. Wool-lined mocha gloves come in slate color. Angora, Llama, Scotch and Australian wool knitted gloves are to be obtained in white, black, brown, gray, fawn and heather intermixtures, as well as all the Tartan colors and Fair Isle blendings, so named after the Shetland Island. Now and then, palms and wrists are edged with leather. Some have extension gauntlet wrists.

WITNESS TALKS HIMSELF INTO BASTILE CELL

Milo F. Hardy, of Compton, walked on the witness stand today, in Superior Judge E. J. Marks' court, as prosecuting witness against Elsie Ferguson, alias Mrs. S. E. Long, whom he charged with embezzling $300.

He walked off the witness stand into jail, much to his amazement and consternation.

After Hardy had admitted that he had offered Mrs. Long to call off the prosecution if she would repay him the $300, things began to happen in rapid fire order.

"I move that this complaint be dismissed in the interests of justice," spoke Chief Deputy District Attorney C. N. Mozley.

"Granted," responded Judge Marks promptly, and rather grimly.

"I move, further, that this witness be remanded to the custody of the sheriff," was Mozley's next shot.

"So ordered," said the court.

Hardy sat on the witness stand, apparently not realizing what had happened to him until the bailiff beckoned him away, and escorted him to the county jail, where the Compton man is held for Los Angeles county authorities on suspicion of extortion.

Under the triple cross-fire of questioning, launched by Hardy from defense counsel, the prosecuting attorney and the judge, after he had made the first damaging admission, regarding his purpose in filing the embezzlement charge against Mrs. Long, he soon emmeshed himself in trouble.

Finally cornered, he was asked, point blank, whether his real object in the prosecution was to recover his $300. He answered, "yes."

Then came the startling denouement, while the jury looked on in astonishment at the sudden reversal in positions of the accused woman and her accuser.

Mrs. Long was released immediately following Hardy's arrest. She had received the $300 from Hardy to post as bail for the release of William Heslington, charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. When the bail money was withdrawn, she kept it instead of returning it to Hardy, he alleged. Following her arrest, he is alleged to have offered to "settle it out of court."

an ongoing process which is an unfolding inner purpose and love as a Cosmic force.

Mr. Nealley said when he was tired and wanted something in lighter vein to read him he read that wonderful Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam. Among others touched upon was Nietzsche, who says, the root evil in life is the pity for the weak; that weakness is the only evil. Milton's Paradise Lost, shows the need of miraculous redemption. Stephen Phillips in his "Marpeasa," tells of a beautiful maid who has the choice of marrying a God or a mortal. She chooses the mortal, a peasant, rather than the easier lot, chose loving and giving, sacrifice and care that goes with poverty and toil, the common portion of peasantry that to her was the greater experience.

"In life," said Mr. Nealley, "experience is the school that counts. We must have it. A person born on a desert isle, growing up entirely alone will never have the power to think, to know life. The brain will not develop." Ibsen's "Brand," teaches that religion consists of being pious. Socrates said that evil was only in appearance, there was no such thing as evil. Commenting on the various phases of evil as shown in the works of poets and philosophers, Mr. Nealley gave his own deductions and read some of the joyous poems of Walt Whitman, and in direct exposition extracts from James Thomson's poem, "The City of Dreadful Night."

The subject will be continued for several lessons as so many of our best poets seem to enjoy writing disconsolate things, while the good things, as Patrick writers, are too common to be interesting. "Joy and gladness are theories,—evil is a fact."

All are intensely interested in Mr. Nealley's portrayal of this wonderful philosophy of life and look forward to his general summing up of the subject now being considered.

Orange Burglar Frightened When Family Returns

A burglar, who was just ready to gather up his loot and make his escape, was frightened from the home of Ray Burrier, Vista and Cambridge streets, Orange, Saturday night, by the sudden return home of Mr. and Mrs. Burrier, according to a report on file at the sheriff's office.

A suitcase, which had been taken from a closet, was found on the dining room table, filled with toilet goods, women's wearing apparel and jewelry.

A pistol, the property of Burrier, was reported as missing.

Burrier reported that as he drove into his driveway, he saw a Ford machine suddenly leave from a parking place near his home.

BANKER SPENDS NIGHT IN JAIL ON 2 CHARGES

Richard Nevins, 37, said to be a Pasadena banker, today was free on $500 bail, following his arrest, Saturday night, on the San Diego highway, near Irvine, by State Motorcycle Officers Yoder and Hurd, who charged him with reckless driving and possession of intoxicating liquor.

Nevins spent Saturday night locked behind the bars in the county jail.

Nevins' examining trial has been set for 9:30 a. m. tomorrow, in Justice Morrison's court.

The banker was returning to his home in Pasadena, from San Diego, at the time of his arrest, according to Hurd, who said that, at the approach of the officers, the man was seen to throw two water glasses and a corker from the machine, leaving the alleged liquor in the automobile. A quart of Scotch whiskey was said to have been found by the officers.

Nevins was speeding 45 miles an hour at the time of his arrest, the officers said.

Mrs. J. A. Laffer of 2117 Cypress avenue left yesterday over the Union Pacific for Marion, Ind., stopping over en route at Cheyenne, Wyo., for a visit with her daughter.

Mrs. Hattie Walker and her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Longley and daughter, Harriet of Los Angeles were weekend guests of Mrs. A. L. Dearing and Mrs. K. E. Livezey of 1410 Bush street, Mrs. Dearing and Mrs. Walker are sisters.

John C. Clive, a business man of Sandy, Utah, arrived at the home of his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Duggan, 222 South Sycamore street, on Saturday and will probably spend the winter here, hoping to benefit his health.

Other guests last week at the Duggan home were Mr. and Mrs. S. S. East of Salem, Ore., former well-known residents of this city, where Mr. East was in the ice business for some years. He is now retired and he and his wife paused in this city on the first lap of a trip around the world. They left Santa Ana expecting to arrive tomorrow in New York City, where they will set sail. The Holy Land will be on the itinerary. Mr. and Mrs. East also visited their old friends, Dr. and Mrs. T. J. Haughton of South Sycamore street, and their daughter, Mrs. Hugh Kyle at Long Beach during their stay in the southland.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Walters of 1001 North Barton street are enjoying a visit from Mrs. Walters' nephew, Stanley W. Carnahan, of Louisville, Kentucky, who is a private in the heavy artillery at Schofield barracks, Honolulu, T. H. The young artilleryman has a forty-six day furlough. He is tractor instructor for Battery D, of the 15th field artillery.

Miss Etta Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Monte Jackson of Fullerton, who has been ill with scarlet fever, is now greatly improved.

Mrs. W. C. Mayes of 1314 Orange avenue went to Los Angeles this afternoon to remain until tomorrow the guest of Dr. Mayes' uncle, Dr. C. M. Mayes and family. Dr. W. C. Mayes is expected home on Wednesday next from Imperial valley, where he has been resting for the past two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde C. Taylor and Ernest Didier left Friday for a visit of several weeks at their former home in Belen, New Mexico.

W. C. T. U.

The Orange County W. C. T. U. executive meeting was held last Thursday at Placentia, opening at 10 o'clock in the beautiful new Calvary church. Every union in the county was represented by delegates. The president, Mrs. Estelle Harper, was in charge. Devotional service was led by the evangelistic superintendent, Mrs. T. H. Walker. Reports and business of the board occupied the morning session.

The presidents gave some very interesting reports, as each union has some special work and almost all are doing splendid Americanization work. Most unions are busy raising the budget of one dollar a member. Several have sent all of this budget to the treasurer, Mrs. J. S. Kellogg, while the rest are making efforts to get it all in soon. It must be in by May 1. Some of this budget is to help entertain the national W. C. T. U. convention to be held in Los Angeles early in October. The state team composed of four state officers will be in Orange county from March 26 to April 2 for field work. A drive for members will be made during the week of the official visit.

A resolution was passed and will be sent to Mrs. Kahn condemning her stand against the 18th amendment.

Members of the Placentia union served a very splendid hot luncheon in the church dining room. Afterwards the guests were taken through the beautiful new church so splendidly equipped for work in Placentia.

The afternoon session was opened with an inspiring devotional service by the Rev. C. E. Fuller, pastor of the church. Mrs. E. J. Blumenshine favored with a vocal solo, with Mrs. John Scott accompanying. A very pretty exercise of the Little White Ribbon recruits was conducted by Mrs. T. H. Walker of Anaheim. When the White Ribbon was tied on the wrist of these little children, the Rev. G. A. Mansbaldt, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Placentia, gave a splendid address. Mr. Mansbaldt went back to the early history when the drinking was common in almost every home and compared conditions with the present day. Some of his points were that in early days one man could make liquor for hundreds, while now hundreds of men are employed in making food products. Ours is the first great nation to put this law on the statute book while some smaller countries had been dry for years. No loyal citizen would want to go back to the days of the open saloon, and the law will soon be enforced as other laws are. A vote of thanks was tendered the speaker for the splendid address.

Mrs. Estelle Walker of Richfield, sang "Memories of Mother," and "That Little Woman of Mine." Mrs. C. P. Smith played the accompaniment. An invitation from Orange to hold the next executive meeting at that place was accepted. A vote of thanks was given Placentia for the royal entertainment tendered the executive board members.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 1.—From what enigmatic finger dripped this town called Hollywood—this Celluloid City, housing a delicatessen of varied nationalities among whom are found the worst and the best? To that man who dreamed himself master, Cecil B. DeMille, at least, go the credit for its discovery.

The film director had been making pictures in a New Jersey barn when, needing a natural sage-brush and cactus background, he moved his cinema caravan to Arizona. On a week-end he traveled westward and came upon a long, barren road, dotted on either side with a few ramshackled houses and stores.

That day he wired his film partner, Jesse L. Lasky: "I've found a little place out here by the name of Hollywood. It seems to be a pretty good place in which to make movies. I'm going to stay." That was 12 years ago.

"The long barren road" down which the weary picture prodigal trod is now the brightly lighted boulevard—known as the famed and failing way. To this street of tragedy and good fortune, sooner or later, comes all the world. They come to see the stars whirling by in limousines on which first payments have been made; countless hundreds are conquered and very soon they, too, ride down this traffic artery in cars they were never destined to afford.

Thus it was, my children, that Hollywood came to be known the earth over.

There was a time—and only a few years ago at that—when Mae Murray would hardly deign to know Rudolph Valentino. He was merely a greasy-haired and struggling young actor trying to get in one of her pictures. And finally he succeeded. His part was dwarfed so as not to shade Mae's dancing performance. And then, when Rudy became acclaimed the sheik of hearts over night, producers re-issued the Mae Murray picture, after re-cutting it, as a "Rudolph Valentino starring picture."

And now the daily papers are keeping a palpitating fan world fully informed about Mae and Rudy romping around Europe like a couple of kids just released from a convent. Well, one might say they have been released—released from the legal mates of many

Betrothals Weddings Receptions Woman's Page Social Items Fashion Hints

Two Brides-elect Are Complimented at Gay Surprise Shower

A recent delightful meeting of an Orange club made up of charming Orange and Santa Ana girls, two members who recently announced their betrothals, were complimented by hostesses and guests. The party was given by Mrs. Alvin Dierker and Miss Katherine Fitch at the home of the latter on North Yorba street, Orange, and the honorees were Miss Celeste Dierker, fiancée of Alfred Behneman and Miss Laura Precht whose betrothal to Jack Jordan was recently announced.

To all intents, the party was the usual meeting of the club, whose intriguing name of M. E. N. club doesn't at all mean what it sounds like, despite betrothals and weddings. But the members had conspired and after a merry evening of contests in which the Misses Wanda Priess, Edith Haman and Laura Precht had carried off attractive prizes, the main event was staged, in the form of twin baskets of gifts, one for each bride-elect. The contents of the baskets were varied and lovely, and examination of the gifts offered a delightful interval to honorees and their club sisters.

The Fitch home was made a most charming setting for the event, with quantities of pink and white carnations to adorn the living room. The rainbow motif was introduced in the dining room where the merrymakers were asked after the gift presentation. Centering the table was a floral arrangement in which the seven rainbow colors were suggested by blue cornflowers, yellow daisies and varietal sweet peas. Above this riot of color was suspended an umbrella suggestive of showers and rainbows since each of the colors was represented in its cover. From it, garlands of the lovely tints led to self tinted nut cups and dainty parasols at each place. Candles in pastel tints illumined the scene. Places of honor for Miss Precht and Miss Dierker were indicated by dainty bride cards. A menu of creamed chicken with hot rolls and other tidbits followed by pineapple fluff, angel food cake and coffee, was served.

The weddings of Miss Dierker and Mr. Behneman and Miss Precht and Mr. Jordan, are anticipated as events of the early spring although none of their friends have as yet been informed of the exact dates chosen by the brides. Both have been the object of many delightful courtesies on the part of friends.

Enjoying the double event at the Fitch home were the hostesses, Miss Fitch, and Mrs. Dierker, the two honor guests, and the Misses Luella Dierker, Edith Haman, Cora Precht, Clara Precht, Esther Sealing, Sophie Ehlen, Adele Ehlen, Wanda Priess, Ella Klaustermeyer, Esther Klaustermeyer, Gertrude Klauer, Mrs. Joseph Peterson, Mrs. Willis Thompson and Mrs. Fred Kahlen.

Mr. and Mrs. Krahling Are Friendly Hosts At Card Party

ESPIE THE eerie combination of Friday as the day of the week and 13 as the number of guests, nothing but the best of fortune attended a gay little party given last Friday night by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Krahling of 411 East Twentieth street.

Three tables were arranged for cards, and adding to the spice of the evening was the fact that a different game was in progress at each table, while added entertainment was given by the host who executed a clever dog dance to the music of the radio.

At a late hour, card table covers were removed and dainty lunch cloths substituted, with nut cups, flowers and other charming table appointments to correspond with the color scheme of individual cloths. The most appetizing of little suppers, featuring chicken en pate, pineapple salad, potato chips, olives, hot rolls, coffee and as a final toothsome delight, pumpkin pie topped with whipped cream, was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Kester.

Special guest honors were accorded Mrs. Ethel Goble of Chicago, house-guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. McKague while others present included Mr. and Mrs. McKague, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Kester, Mr. and Mrs. George Gilmore, Mr. and Mrs. William Umberham and Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Umberham.

Young People Wedded Saturday Afternoon Leave for North

LANNING A motor honeymoon and a visit in San Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Ammann took their departure late Saturday afternoon following their 2 o'clock bridal ceremony and a reception which followed at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James McBride of West Second street.

Mrs. Ammann was Miss Ethel May McBride and her wedding vows to Mr. Ammann were taken before the Rev. Will A. Betts, pastor of the First Methodist church, at his parsonage home.

The young couple were surrounded only by their nearest and dearest for the pretty ceremony for which the bride was charmingly gowned in love-bird green crepe satin with gold lace and a picture hat to harmonize. Her flowers were narcissus and bride roses with maidenhair fern. Mrs. Caswald Conner served her sister as matron of honor while Mr. Conner assisted Mr. Ammann as best man. Following the ceremony the wedding party returned to the McBride home where an elaborate decorative scheme was effected by use of sweet peas and narcissus. Daintily garlanded trays were used for serving the refreshments in which the salad and sandwich course was followed by ices, bride's cake and groom's cake. The former, a towering confection of snowy white, was cut by the young Mrs. Ammann while Mr. Ammann cut the groom's cake, a rich fruit cake.

Departing late in the afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Ammann will enjoy the hospitality in San Francisco of the groom's brother, George Ammann. Upon their return they will make their home in Huntington Park whence Mr. Ammann will commute to his work in Los Angeles.

Guests at the wedding included the parents of the two young people, Mr. and Mrs. J. McBride of this city, and Mr. and Mrs. Ammann, Los Angeles; the bride's relatives, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. McBride of Compton and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Conner, and the groom's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Val Schriebe of Los Angeles and their two children, Virginia and Vincent.

Eightieth Birthday Is Celebrated at Ranch Home

RS. H. J. MASTERS of this city celebrated, here eightieth birthday yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. August Longreen of the Irvine ranch. In honor of the occasion Mrs. Longreen had invited her brothers and sisters and their families to dinner, a charming birthday affair.

Centering the table was a huge birthday cake upon which the numerals 81 were outlined with 81 gleaming candles. Eighty of the little lights, twinkled for the splendid years completed, while the eighty-first year upon which Mrs. Masters is now embarking, was suggested by the eighty-first candle.

A delicious dinner was enjoyed by the guests and was followed by a happy home afternoon in which games were shared by the young people and conversation and reminiscences by their elders. Loving wishes were showered on Mrs. Masters who was also remembered by many pretty gifts.

Gathered for the happy day with the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. August Longreen and the honoree, Mrs. Masters, were Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Bramsen, Miss Frances Bramsen, Harold Bramsen, Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Masters, Mrs. Edna Cunningham, Edward Cunningham, James Streten, Frank Masters and Donald Masters, his son.

The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Maxwell, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Clark and James Ward, Long Beach; Mrs. A. Perkins, Richard Perkins, Mr. and Mrs. George Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Lyman, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Dean of Santa Ana.

A large group of friends of little Miss Roberta McKnight, winsome daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. McKnight of 1414 Bush street, gathered at her home one afternoon last week to assist her in the celebration of her seventh birthday.

The children passed a delightful interval with games indoors and out, and greatly enjoyed inspecting the many appreciated gifts received by the young honoree. The dining room received the admiration of the company of little maids as it was artistically decorated in pink and white, fresias, sweet peas and baby marguerites making the lovely centerpiece. Pink petal cups held the candles and each child was presented with a gay balloon. The ice cream was served in tiny flower pots with a blossom growing in the center.

Every-Day Magic

Chairs that flop into beds . . . bags that suck up dirt . . . tiny ticking things that count all day long for you. Daylight any night by pushing a button. A stream that never stops till you turn off a faucet. Any voice you want, talking to you from a cage on your desk or wall. Actions of yesterday, of people miles away, going on on a curtain before you. Stilled throats singing to you from discs; distant throats singing to you from nothing!

Uncanny, daily magic—this, due to national advertising. Advertisements have given you flashlights, telephones, typewriters, automobiles, cold creams, motion pictures. They have given you new eyes, new ears, new hands, new feet, new faces, new emotions. They have urged such a wide use, so lowered prices, that almost wishes are autos, almost beggars can ride. Through advertisements you've laid down the shovel and the hoe. You can buy a whole harvest ready-to-eat in cans. You've hung up the fiddle and the bow, for a radio. There's little old-time work left in this age of amazing short-cuts.

FINAL APPEAL IS ISSUED IN SEAL CAMPAIGN

R. W. Balch of Anaheim, president of the Orange County Tuberculosis association, has sent out the following appeal to all districts of the county, stating that the goal of the Christmas seal sale was not reached and asking that those who did not respond at all and those who are able to give more toward the cause, do so now:

"The Orange County Tuberculosis association is sending out this last appeal for contributions to the fund required to finance the work in the county during 1926.

"We need a full budget with which to carry on our fight against tuberculosis and to save the lives of the little children of our county.

"Even our budget we provide nutrition classes and clinics; it gives the under par children a chance to grow strong and healthy in our big open air health camp; it finances a program of education, one of the important factors in preventing the spread of tuberculosis.

"We have planned an enlarged program for this year and we feel that the success that has attended our past efforts with the little children merits a generous response to our appeal for funds.

"We cannot say too much in praise of the wonderful work, as well as the financial aid from the women's clubs and the men's service clubs of the county.

"Because of the holidays the sale of seals was somewhat checked, but it is hoped that this delay in response to the appeal will be followed during the next few days with generous contributions from the philanthropic men and women of Orange county, so that the entire budget can be in hand by March 1. That the success that has attended Meagher, executive secretary of the association, 314 Hall of Records, Santa Ana.

"We wish at this time to thank the people of Orange county for their response to our appeal for aid in putting out our Christmas seals, and assure them that without their help it could not have been accomplished.

"Orange County Tuberculosis association.

HEADS OF GUN CLUBS ORDERED BEFORE COURT

Justice K. E. Morrison today ordered the officials of various gun clubs and land and water companies to appear before him next Friday, at 2 p. m., to answer complaints relative to the alleged wholesale waste of water from artesian wells on their properties.

A dozen keepers and superintendents, representing various defendant companies and clubs, appeared before the court today and were instructed to have the "higher ups" prepare their pleas to the criminal charges instituted recently by the district attorney's office.

Questioned today by the court and by Deputy District Attorney D. G. Wettlin, who is handling the gun club prosecutions, the keepers made two significant revelations. One was the fact that the so-called gun clubs are in reality organized as "land and water companies." It is believed by the authorities that their defense to the criminal charges of wasting water will be based on the contention that they are using the water for development of land.

The other revelation by the keepers was that all water has been shut off on the club grounds since the visit of Wettlin and members of the grand jury over the ground a few weeks ago, just before the criminal complaints were filed.

CIVIL CASE NO. 20,000 IS FILED IN SANTA ANA COURT RECORDS

Legal Business of County Indicates Biggest Increase in Last 7 Years

BACKS HAS SEEN GREATEST GROWTH

One Judge Had Ample Time To Care for All Cases Arising in Pioneer Days

Since Mrs. Alice Reid, of San Francisco, petitioned Superior Judge Towner for a writ of habeas corpus 37 years ago, when Orange county was new, a total of 20,000 cases have gone into the records of the superior court, representing the entire volume of legal business in Orange county during its history. Case No. 20,000 was filed last Tuesday.

Indicative of the remarkable recent growth of the county and its court affairs, the records show that half of this legal business, 10,000 cases, has been handled during the last seven years, under the administration of the present county clerk, J. M. Backs. When Backs became clerk, Jan. 1, 1919, a total of 10,001 had been piled up on the court records for the 30 years preceding. Half of that number had been filed since Backs first entered the clerk's office as deputy, under W. B. Williams, Jan. 1, 1912. The cases then had reached a total of 5153.

Thus, it was shown, the county's volume of legal business for the first 23 years, between 1889 and 1912, was equalled by the seven years from 1912 and 1919. Then, the volume for the 80 years from 1889 to 1919 was equalled by the seven years between 1919 and 1926.

Gain More Pronounced
The increase of civil court business in late years is even more pronounced than shown by the figures, inasmuch as the first records of the county included the criminal and civil cases together. Nowadays the criminal, juvenile and insanity cases are segregated, and the present records, as quoted do not include these branches of court work.

While the single department of the superior court 37 years ago could handle all of its cases and still have ample time for fishing trips and talking politics, the three departments of the court at the present time are hard pressed to keep up with the rush of work. The court calendars, now, are filled for months ahead and there is already discussion of a fourth department. The third was added only two and a half years ago.

At the present time, the person

A telling scene from Santa Ana Community play, "The Dover Road," with Jack Hayden doing the telling. The pretty girl being told is Miss Helen McPeak as "Anne," while the amazed person overhearing is Robert Speed, as "Dominic." Hayden, as "Latimer," plays the lead. "The Dover Road" will open Wednesday night at Ebbl auditorium for four nights' run.

Players Feel Rain Coming And Secure Scenery Ere Downfall

Santa Ana Community Players and members of the cast of "The Dover Road," this week's attraction in the Ebbl auditorium, were as wholeheartedly glad as was everyone else, when the long hoped-for rain finally came, for the Players were canny folk and had anticipated the showers by securing the necessary scenery for the production well in advance of the opening night of the production, Wednesday, February 3. When storm clouds began to gather late last week and the promised showers seemed imminent, the enterprising Players dispatched a great truck from the Taylor cannery, to Pasadena, where the Pasadena Community Players had all the necessary stage setting for "The Dover Road" and had placed it at the disposal of the Santa Ana association.

Fearing that continued rains would make it impossible to secure the badly needed settings, were the matter allowed to go over until this week, the truck and driver were sent to the neighboring city, the needed "props" secured and the return trip made ere there was so much as a sprinkling of rain.

And now all is in readiness for tomorrow night's dress rehearsal in the Ebbl auditorium, with all necessary scenery to be in place, "The Dover Road" will run four nights, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Miss Helen McPeak, daughter of the Rev. W. H. McPeak, pastor of the United Presbyterian church; Miss Kate Heffner, of Orange, art teacher in the elementary schools of that city; Miss Margaret Cummings, member of the Santa Ana Community Players association, and Miss Tessie Childers, are the feminine members of the cast, while Warren Fletcher, Jack Bascom and Robert Speed, Community Players, Jack Hayden of the Southern Counties Gas company, and Leslie Steffensen and Valmer Clark, complete the cast.

SPANISH RIDER IS FOUND DYING BESIDE HORSE

Fire Warden Sights Wandering Animal in Hills And Locates Man's Body

A saddled horse, grazing aimlessly upon a mountainside, led to an investigation, Thursday, that resulted in the discovery of Cornelio Serrano, unconscious beside the trail. The man's condition was due to a stroke of paralysis, it was judged by a physician who was called.

Serrano, born in an adobe at El Toro, in 1865, was a member of one of the old Spanish Californian families, whose residence in California dates back to the period before 1800. One of the numerous Mexican grants of the '30's and '40's went to a member of this family, and it was in the old ranch home, northeast of El Toro, that Cornelio was born.

For many years Cornelio lived with other members of the Serrano family in the upper part of Aliso canyon. He was unmarried.

Thursday morning, he set off on horseback to catch a horse that was running on the forest reserve at the head of the Aliso. Some six or seven hours later, from the valley below, it was noticed that his horse was wandering. Word was sent to George Harris, deputy county fire and game warden, who lives in the Aliso canyon.

Harris rode out in search of Serrano and found him. The unconscious man was taken on Harris' horse and carried down the trail to the Serrano ranch. Serrano lived only a short time. His funeral took place this morning in San Juan Capistrano.

New Supply of Orange County Books Needed

Like the proverbial hot cakes, the first order of 10,000 Orange county publicity booklets has been exhausted and another order is to be placed with the printer for a new supply, according to Dr. F. W. Slabaugh, county purchasing agent, in charge of the distribution of the booklets.

Every day, since the booklets have been ready for distribution, girls in the purchasing agent's office have sent out hundreds of them to addresses left at the office or to addresses obtained from lists submitted by Orange county chambers of commerce.

The fact that the booklets have been "snapped up" so quickly this year is interpreted by Dr. Slabaugh as meaning a greater interest being taken in Orange county by its own people than ever before.

Compliments continue to pour in on the purchasing agent upon the appearance and quality of the booklet. Many consider this year's effort the best of its kind in the county, he said.

Dr. Slabaugh repeated that persons who wish to have the booklets placed in the hands of eastern friends may do so by leaving the addresses at his office. With each booklet will go a letter, informing the easterner of the name of the person who asked that the booklet be sent and a personal invitation to visit Orange county.

LITTLE BROWN CHURCH OF WHICH SONG WAS WRITTEN

Remember the old song about "The Little Brown Church in the Dale?" Well, this is it—the 70-year-old church at Bradford, Ia., about which the song was written. Inset shows the pastor, Rev. George Hanna. The church has lately become popular as a place for elopers to be married.

CHARACTERS OF MUSIC COMEDY CLASSIC TO BE ANNOUNCED

The dates for the performances of "The Love Garden," the musical comedy production, to be given for the playground benefit fund, have been changed to Thursday and Friday nights, February 11 and 12, in the high school auditorium.

The Federation of Parent-Teacher associations is sponsoring the play and Robert Skilling, composer, will direct the orchestra and cast of 300.

The cast is as follows: Reginald Jones, a poet, Robert Bradford; the mayor, S. A. Clem; Jack Carpenter, an athlete, Eugene Douglas; Severy-Eye, a street musician, Ted P. Grier; Jo-Jo, village fool, Cy Featherly; Sing Lee, a Chinese, Arthur G. Derby; Shannon, a policeman, Harry H. Brackett; Chiquita, the mayor's ward, Mrs. Arthur May; Frances Fairchild, the queen, Mrs. Virginia Huffman.

Anita, del cuarto español, Madam Manuela Budrow; Mollie, bridesmaid, Miss Kathleen Owens; Marie, friend of Chiquita, Miss Virginia Bailey; Tia Juana, a fortune teller, Miss Betty Zarinski.

The opera deals with a romance of the "Fiesta," a yearly event in certain California towns. Chiquita, the mayor's ward, and Frances Fairchild, a stately beauty, each receive many votes for queen, but the latter wins.

Jack Carpenter is chosen "Knight," beating Reginald Jones, a poet-composer.

Chiquita loves Jones, but Jones idealizes Frances, thinking her an inspiration, and falls to notice Chiquita's charms.

The first scene of the second act shows part of the fiesta parade, on Main street.

That night, at the park festivities, Jones is to present a scene from his new opera, and Chiquita is in the cast, with two of her friends, Marie and Mollie.

Carpenter is jealous and hires Severy-Eye and Jo-Jo, two street characters, to burn the bower where the opera scene is to be presented.

The fire brands force Sing Lee, a Chinaman, to help them. Their incendiary work is ridiculously funny, and in the midst of it, they are arrested by Mike Shannon, a policeman.

The opera scene is performed and at the end of the waltz song, "The Love Garden," Chiquita falls in a faint, and Jones, taking her in his arms, finds that it is she that he really loves.

The mayor agrees to finance Jones' opera. A year later Jones, having become famous, is seen in his real "love garden," with Chiquita, his bride.

Here Frances, by taking Jones aside, succeeds in arousing Chiquita's jealousy, but the trouble is adjusted by Sing Lee, who is now Jones' valet.

Chinese girls serve the wedding party and after Tia Juana, a fortune teller, has prophesied much happiness, all join enthusiastically in singing "The Love Garden."

Next Monday night, the Vanity Girls will meet at 6:30 and the Spanish Dancers at 7 o'clock for rehearsal. At 8 o'clock Monday night, the entire adult company will rehearse in the high school auditorium, to finish work on the "finales."

New singers may enter the cast at that time.

Wigs made of spun glass in Germany are said to defy detection better than those made of hair.

Double bicycles are not being made any more.

Sailors used to wear their hair in a long pigtail.

Hundreds of artists, designers, decorators and builders are busily engaged in San Bernardino fashioning the spectacle of Kings Orange for the opening of the Sixteenth National Orange show, Thursday night, February 18.

This great citrus classic is known as California's greatest midwinter event and it is asserted that the forthcoming exposition will be the peer of any exposition ever held for beauty. It has long been known as the "exposition beautiful" and it has not seemed possible to each year add to its beauty. However, with the decorative motif carrying the richness of the Dhurbar, the gold and silver trappings of the East Indian, with 3200 paper mache elephants passing in review under what appears to be a star pierced heaven, it is conceded that another triumph has been achieved.

Gov. Friend W. Richardson officially will open the show. He will be a visitor again on Saturday, February 20, Southern California Editorial Association day.

Twenty feature displays are being constructed. Fifteen million oranges will be used in the rack displays. The by-products, industrial and citrus education departments will be overflowing with exhibits.

Another feature will be grand opera stars. Famous radio broadcasters will be present in person. The richness of the Infantry band, Jose Arias Troubadors, singers, dancers and a host of other entertainers will give the National Orange show a great entertainment.

The show will be open every day, including evenings and Sundays, and including Sunday night, February 28.

Child's Bank Is Robbed by Thief

A burglar, who entered the home of Alec C. Fletcher, Olive, last night, between 7 and 9 p. m., while members of the family were on the second floor of the house, escaped with approximately $17 in small change, secured from a child's bank, according to State Motorcyclist Officers Louis Heffner and H. S. Warner, who investigated.

The thief entered through a back porch screen door, making his getaway through an orange grove at the rear of the house.

The kitchen was the only room of the house entered, it was said.

Pasadena Youth Arrested On Two Driving Charges

Charged with reckless driving and speeding 65 miles an hour, on the San Diego highway, near Irvine, Meredith K. Smith, 20, 1336 Roseville avenue, Pasadena, was arrested Saturday night by Pat Hurd, state motorcyclist officer.

The man is scheduled to appear in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court next Friday when he will face a term in the Orange county jail, if found guilty.

According to Hurd, Smith nearly forced Sheriff Sam Jernigan's machine from the road, when the two men in the sheriff's machine were Jernigan and Capt. Henry S. Warner, of the state police.

'LITTLE' GIRLS ARE CONDUCTED ABOUT SCHOOL

Instead of a hazing, for a reception, the new sophomore girls entering the Santa Ana polytechnic high school were greeted by their big sisters and entertained at a luncheon, today, in the Y. W. C. A. campus hut.

The welcoming of the new girls was undertaken by the Girls' league. Fifty "big sisters" conducted their "little" sisters about the school grounds Friday, acquainting them with the rooms of the big white school buildings.

It was almost a half holiday for the students, who have been looking forward to their entrance into the mid-term holiday.

Most of the new arrivals are girls of the graduating classes from the Frances E. Willard and Julia C. Lathrop junior high schools. They are enrolled in the high school for the mid-term semester.

At the entertainment, today, in the campus hut, Miss Virginia Bailey sang, Miss Florence Urbine danced and Miss Margaret Carothers played the piano. The program was arranged by Miss Gayle Baldwin. Arrangements for the reception were under the direction of Miss Mary Jane Owens, president of the Girls' league.

Police News

Officer Fred Yates, of the Santa Ana police department, has been granted a leave of absence, to take effect immediately. Mrs. Yates has been ordered to the desert for her health and her husband will accompany her.

D. R. Streibich, 18, arrested here Saturday, as a stranger from the U. S. navy, was released from custody yesterday, when officers on the U. S. S. Burrard, a mine layer at San Pedro, ordered the man turned loose with a command for him to return to the ship, according to information obtained at the jail.

Charged with non-support of minor children, Maximo Contreras, 42, arrested last night in Ontario by Ed French, undersheriff, was released, today, in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court, on his own recognizance.

Cruz Padilla, 30, and G. Corona, 24, charged with possession of intoxicating liquor, today were in the county jail, following their arrest, in Anaheim, Saturday night. A sack, containing bottles of alleged intoxicating liquor, was said to have been found in a machine which they were occupying at the time officers accosted them, and when they disclaimed ownership of the sack, both were arrested.

K. W. Squires, who resides one and one-fourth miles east of Olive, reported to the sheriff's office today, the theft last night of 24 chickens from his place. Deputy Sheriff Jesse T. Elliott investigated.

Joe Garcia, Western avenue, Buena Park, reported the theft of four tires from his automobile last night. The machine was in Garcia's garage at the time of the theft.

Four fumigating tents were stolen from A. R. MacBeth, Anaheim, Saturday night, according to a report on file at the sheriff's office. The tents were marked "Mike MacBeth," according to the report.

When a Kansas man recovered his stolen car he found 100 $500 bills in the spare tire. A bank later claimed the money.

YOST THEATER

A typical variety bill will be seen in the Yost vaudeville show opening tomorrow, with just the proper blend of singing, dancing, comedy and acrobatics.

The Chalfonte sisters contribute the dance portion of the bill with a series of splendidly executed dance steps, coupled with a number of original costumes, each appropos to the numbers offered. They open their act as two pool parrots, then appear as dragon flies, followed by impersonations of a Dutch maiden, an ugly duckling ensemble and then as birds of Paradise, resplendent and scintillating.

Stuart Barnes is a monologist of class, superior delivery, both as to manner and material, a rare sense of humor, strikingly expressive countenance, and he never wastes a moment. This polished raconteur has a way with him—a quiet, unassuming but singularly effective way.

The Wilson Aubrey trio uses comedy wrestling as its forte, and exhibits considerable dexterity in falls, tumbles and clinches. It is an offering built along broadly humorous lines, ostensibly to create laughter and amusingly enjoyable entertainment, and incidentally to exploit what may be considered one of the greatest comedy gymnastic exhibitions of today.

When Paul Gerard Smith writes a skit it is a good skit. There are some 40 Smith skits in vaudeville and all of them are as full of fun as a Christmas pudding is full of spices. The players who obtain one of them rightfully consider the battle half won. Bert Cody and Ruth Day are two such players. The combination of their ability and Smith's material, proved a feast of fun and banquet of joy. Cody and Day will be seen in "Wednesday Night."

In this day of vaudeville, any artist presenting a straight singing act must have voice, personality, ability and a thorough knowledge of music in order to satisfy, entertain and please the theater going public. Brady, Riddle and Murray, a trio of songsters, presenting "Bits of Harmony" meet this rigid conditions perfectly.

Tonight's program at the Yost includes five acts of vaudeville and "Hands Up!" Raymond Griffith's latest picture.

WEST END THEATER.

If there are greater heights for D. W. Griffith to attain, if there are additional honors for this directorial genius to win, if there are further laurels for the old master to gather, then surely he has reached those heights, earned those honors and gained those laurels with "That Royle Girl," his latest screen creation, now showing at the West End theater.

Griffith has taken Edwin Balmer's vivid, ultra-modern story of life in the Chicago jazz belt and under-world, peopled it with such fine artists as Carol Dempster, W. C. Fields, James Kirkwood, Harrison Ford and others, and made of it a heart-grIPPING epic picture of thrilling drama and hilarious comedy, richly woven with poignant paths, typically American humor and a compelling love-romance.

Exciting as is the action of the plot which sweeps irresistibly through gripping scenes of law-breaking, intrigue and murder, reaching a climactic frenzy in a spectacular awe-inspiring cyclone, it is overshadowed by the spirited acting of the chief characters, and dominated at all times by the master hand of Griffith.

Under his sympathetic eye, Miss Dempster, in the title role, achieves a triumphant characterization, with a naturalness and sincerity that is truly astonishing and altogether convincing she reveals the many-sided phases of the jazz-mad little flapper's complex nature. In the same way, W. C. Fields, as the dead-beat father, insinuates himself into the affections of the audience, Swindler and weakling though he is, there is yet something lovable and super-patetic about him. Perhaps it's his saving sense of humor, for his comedy is certainly contagious.

WEST COAST-WALKER.

Vampires are coming in for a lot of good-natured kidding by Claire Windsor in "Dance Madness," the film production now playing at the West Coast-Walker theater.

Claire, in one sequence of the story, dons a dark red wig, wears tight-fitting, black clothes, and slinks through one scene after another in pursuit of her unsuspecting husband, played by Conrad Nagel.

Miss Windsor has accumulated a few mannerisms from every screen vampire, and by adding a few of her own, plays in this picture what might be termed a symposium of vampires. Theda Bara, Nita Naldi, Barbara La Marr, Carmel Myers, and other sirens are the object of Claire's good-natured burlesque.

On the stage is one of the most elaborate and entertaining presentations ever produced by Fanchon and Marco, featuring stars of both East and West. Ruth Waddell of the Ziegfeld Follies works hand in hand with Florence Cleveland, former prima-donna of the Kolb and Dill company. Assisting them are "Little Johnny Perkins," Albert Macgillivray, who was in the Mission Belle Idea, Joey Ray, Dewey Barto, eccentric dancer, and the Sunkist Beauties.

JAIL SENTENCE AWAITS NAVAL OFFICER'S WIFE

Mrs. Harriett C. Richardson, wife of a lieutenant on the U. S. S. West Virginia, stationed at San Pedro, is scheduled to appear at the county jail tonight to begin a five-day jail sentence for speeding, according to an announcement made today by K. E. Morrison, justice of the peace.

Mrs. Richardson was arrested October 18, 1925, by E. G. Yoder, state motorcycle officer, who charged her with speeding 55 miles an hour on the San Diego highway, near Irvine.

Her case had been continued from time to time since October, once to allow her to visit her husband, who, at the time, was in Washington.

Capital Letter

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—"Oh, how blessed it is for brethren to dwell together in harmony."

Representative George Huddleston, of Alabama, was talking about the Republicans and Democrats in congress. As he sees it, the two parties are just alike. Every time anything really important comes up, he says they get together on it.

"Oh, how I love these times of amity," he adds. "But as an afterthought, 'I wonder whether they are going to produce any good results for the country.'"

So it appears that Congressman Huddleston was sarcastic when he said, "How blessed it is for brethren to live together in harmony."

He was taking a crack at the "opposition party" management in congress for not being genuine oppositself—a Democrat. But he acts a lot like an insurgent, just as the Wisconsin representatives are insurgent Republicans.

He professes, however, to be a regular.

That is to say, you can consider him a regular if this description fits one: "Oh, yes," he confesses, "I wear the party yoke."

"I put it on my shoulders and I growl and I grunt and I go forward and lean against my fellow ox, for of course I am an ox when I wear a yoke."

"I wear the yoke of my party regularly as best I can, but let me say that it is not a case in which the galled jade doesn't wince. I cry aloud. I am not the captain of my soul."

"I am compelled to be reasonably regular, but I am no more regular than I have to be."

Congressmen Huddleston, Florentino H. LaGuardia, of New York, Victor L. Berger, of Wisconsin, and Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois, are pre-eminent humorists of the house of representatives.

This isn't overlooking Speaker Nicholas Longworth, for he is witty rather than humorous. Nor is it to say that there aren't other able speakers and debaters in the house. There are several—men who always talk interestingly, forcefully and informally.

But for real refined vaudeville you want to visit the hall of the representatives when Huddleston, LaGuardia, Berger or Rainey is scheduled to be heard from.

Rainey was a minority member of the committee which framed the new tax bill. He and Congressman Cordell Hull, of Tennessee, didn't like it and the former's account of the fashion in which the bipartisan bandwagon ran over was the scream of the opening days of the present session.

Berger's description of the Republican insurgents as "only a tail on the elephant"—"a sore tail, which makes the elephant sore"—promises to go down in history as one of the house classics.

"If all the speeches made on this floor in favor of private operation of Muscle Shoals could be converted into fertilizer, we would have the richest soil on earth," is one of LaGuardia's latest.

As a typical sample of Huddleston, "I cannot yield further"—when Congressman William B. Oliver, of Alabama, tried to interrupt a speech he was making—"for the gentleman to try to cut the gizzard out of my argument with legal quibbles."

Civil Case No. 20,000 Is Filed In Court Records

who files a lawsuit cannot expect to have it heard for several months. Such was not the case with Mrs. Alice Reid, when she filed her petition for a writ of habeas corpus in Judge Towner's court August 13, 1882. Mrs. Reid got quick action. There wasn't another case in her way. Clerk R. T. Wickham inscribed the case on the brand clean records with a flourish, the entire proceedings being in longhand those days.

Got Quick Action

Quick action suited Mrs. Reid, as she was in a hurry to get possession of her three children, who, she claimed, was being unlawfully restrained from her by Peter Betts, of Orange county, a relative of her divorced husband. She based her demand, in part, on the assertion that Betts was "a Mormon and of immoral tendencies." Attorney McKelvey represented her and Attorney Victor Montgomery was counsel for Betts.

The case finally was dismissed by stipulation, so the fate of the Betts children is not shown by the records.

Quick action is still given all court cases, for that matter, but quick action, nowadays, is not equivalent to quick consideration. It simply means pushing the jam of cases along through the crowded court calendars as expeditiously as possible.

That's the difference between Case No. 1 and Case No. 20,000.

SAN BERNARDINO—Twenty miles of power lines will be constructed in the San Bernardino mountains early in the spring at an approximate cost of $30,000 to serve cabin and resort owners, Fred Cats, of Crestline, announced after he had been awarded a franchise by the Board of Supervisors to install the lines. Cats will distribute power for domestic purposes to property owners along the crest of the mountains from Cedar Pines park, near the summit of Devil canyon, to Lake Arrowhead, he said. Cats will purchase his power from either the Edison or Southern Sierras corporations and erect his own lines for distributing the electricity. Domestic lines will be connected to cabins in the numerous colonies along the crest from trunk lines, the construction to which will begin within 30 days.

SAN DIMAS—Building permits for the new year have passed the million-dollar mark, the total being $1,021,410. The total for the month should reach $1,500,000, as it is expected that the permit for the new Pickwick hotel and stage depot will be issued before the end of the week. Permits for the last few days have been chiefly for residences, ranging from palatial homes to cozy cottages, and the total at the end of each day has been such as to indicate a banner building year.

SAN DIMAS—The county will shortly advertise for bids on construction of the three-mile diversion channel to connect Puddingstone dam with the mouth of San Dimas canyon. Surveys over the course have been completed. Agreements have been reached by the county and the property owners as to the prices of 65 per cent of the parcels of land involved in the right-of-way. Four places are at present under condemnation proceedings. About a fifth of the way has not yet been acquired. Brush is being cleared from the site of the diversion dam at the mouth of the canyon. Permission of the San Dimas Land & Water company, owner of the land at that point, has been granted for the clearing of underbrush only.

SAN BERNARDINO—The Deep Creek cutoff, the 11-mile highway between Deep Creek on the Crest road and the Big Bear valley dam, has been added to the California highway commission's system of roads and will be maintained by the state, the board of supervisors has been advised by the commission. Originally, the cut-off, which reduces running time between San Bernardino and Big Bear valley to two and one-half hours, was constructed by the U. S. bureau of public roads, the state aiding in financing of the project. The agreement provided that the federal bureau maintain the road for a two-year period, which expires within a few months.

"Satan in Sables" with Lowell Sherman is the story of a reckless Russian prince who walked the primrose path to the merry tune of aching hearts.
But one day a dancing bit of a girl flits across his pathway—and the bright lights lose their glamour.
How she lured him—baffled him—seemed always just beyond his reach—and then—came back into his life like a ray of sunshine—all this is powerfully pictured in the new WARNER picture—"Satan in Sables."

How Skinny Kids

Gain Needed Weight

Weak, undernourished, underweight boys and girls who are peevish, fretful and sickly need McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets.

Cod Liver Oil would do just as well, but what parent would be so cruel as to give them the horrible, nasty tasting, ill smelling stuff, when sugar coated cod liver oil tablets made by McCoy's Laboratories of New York are as easy to take as candy and won't upset their delicate stomachs.

There's more vitamins of the first class in cod liver oil than in anything else, and for that reason thin, scraggy, sickly children commence to live up and take on good healthy flesh after McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets have been taken for just a few days. Be sure and ask White Cross Drug Co., C. S. Kelley Drug Co., Mutter's or any druggist for McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Tablets, if you want your delicate children to become strong, robust and active. For grown-ups they are just as wonderful—one woman gained 15 pounds in five weeks, 60 tablets 60 cents, and if they don't put 5 pounds of good, firm flesh on any thin man or woman in 30 days, your druggist is authorized to hand you back the money you paid for them.

TWO ROOSEVELTS PHOTOGRAPHED AFTER THEIR RETURN FROM HUNT FOR OVIS POLI

OLE HANSON TO BE CHAMBER SPEAKER

Ole Hanson, former mayor of Seattle, will be the principal speaker at the meeting of the junior division of the Greater Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce tonight, in Ketter's cafe. The meeting will begin at 6:30.

Reports on the progress of plans for the proposed "Fete Grotesque" and the location, in Santa Ana, of a new Pacific Electric depot, will be heard.

A snappy program has been promised by Lynn Crawford, former president of the organization before its amalgamation with the greater chamber of commerce. The three-minute speeches, to be delivered at the net meeting of the junior organization, will be a matter of discussion tonight. Lew Wallace, harbor booster of Newport Beach, has offered a fine trophy cup to the winner of the contest, the subject to be, "What Development of Newport County Harbor Will Mean to Orange County."

GEORGE D. SQUIRES IS TAKEN BY DEATH

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 1.—Funeral services for George D. Squires, 71, state railroad commissioner, who died Sunday, will be held here Tuesday, under direction of the Knights Templar.

Squires was stricken by a heart attack at his Woodside country home more than a week ago, and was brought to a hospital here Friday. Death of Squires removed a prominent figure in state politics for many years. He had served as railroad commissioner since Jan. 13, 1923, and prior to that was state insurance commissioner in 1922 and 1924. He was manager of Governor Richardson's campaign in 1922. Squires was born on a farm near Racine, Wis., in 1855. He came to California in 1873 and for many years followed newspaper work. He was a past president of the San Francisco Press club. Squires was admitted to law practice in 1895 and was counsel for the Southern Pacific and other railroads for years. A widow and four children survive.

Funeral Is Held For John E. Raker

SUSANVILLE, Calif., Feb. 1.—With members of congress and other dignitaries in attendance, funeral services for Congressman John E. Raker were held at the Methodist church here yesterday afternoon. More than 600 were present. The eulogy was delivered by Congressman C. F. Lea, of Santa Rosa, a member of the congressional escort which accompanied the body from Washington. Lea praised the dead representative as a man who had worked untiringly in the interest of California. The Rev. Elijah Hull Longbrake conducted the service.

At the grave, rites were in charge of C. H. S. Bidwell, of Sacramento, grand warden of the Odd Fellows, in which organization Congressman Raker was grand master for California in 1908-09.

British Freighter Is Long Overdue

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 1.—Grave fears are felt here for the British freighter Ryburn, coal laden for this port, which has not been heard from since December 29, when she cleared from Rotterdam. The Ryburn was due here January 16. It is feared the vessel and her crew of 37 men fell victim to the gales that swept the Atlantic during January.

CITY FEELS SELDOM FED SACRAMENTO, Feb. 1.—Even though he has eaten rather infrequently in the past, as his name might imply, Seldom Fed received three meals today at city expense. Fed was arrested by police on suspicion that he stole some women's finery found in his room.

"KERNELS" BY THE COLONEL

Today's booby prize goes to the "ossifer of the law" who read in The Register that there were "fake" telephone men "working" Orange county, discovered a telephone man at his home, collared him, took him to police station, there to learn that he was a real telephone man and an officer of the company.

Even the officials should carry badges showing they have a right to look a telephone in the face.

During this rainy weather we hesitate to say a word regarding lakes for fear someone will find one on every corner.

And now that it has rained, we wonder what the alibi among several people will be.

Here is part of a letter received by the city clerk: "I assume the fee is the same as in this city and I am inclosing a silver half dollar in a coin holder."

Are half-dollars becoming so scarce that in order to tell what they are, their substance must be mentioned?

A Tustin paper carries the following ad: "We carry in stock Whitmore's Gear Compound for Hudsons or other high priced cars." WHOA, LIZZIE.

NAMED U. S. COMMISSIONER LOS ANGELES, Feb. 1.—David B. Head, former legal advisor of federal dry forces here, was today appointed U. S. commissioner for Los Angeles county, succeeding Raymond I. Turney, recently appointed municipal judge.

DENTISTS IN SESSION. LOS ANGELES, Feb. 1.—Southern California dentists met in annual convention today at the college of dentistry of the University of Southern California.

And now, Friend Frank, trapped like a gopher in a hole, says he will come back to Los Angeles and squeal on his confederates.

How many times in the past has his case been acted? A spirit of "I'm caught, but I'll get even with the others because they were not caught."

Every day some man remarks that women are overrunning the world and that men's rights (if any) are dwindling away. What about the following ad: "Man and wife want work to earn board and small amount of cash. Very capable. Can and will do anything. Man attends school. Will work after school. Wife good housekeeper. Will work all day?"

A man, 83 years old, says he has lived long because he married a woman who took good care of him. Most of these years, it must be remembered, were before the days of lipstick, rouge, short skirts, cigarettes and Charlestoning.

A Los Angeles man is being sued for divorce because he fell in love with a comic strip character, "Tillie, the Toller." How would some Santa Ana girl like to love Mutt or Jeff?

Any man who falls in love with a cartoon probably should be divorced.

DEFICIENCY BILL REPORTED. WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The first deficiency appropriation bill, carrying $381,233,735, was reported to the house today by the appropriation committee. The measure carries funds to meet deficiencies which have been incurred during the present fiscal year.

The manufacture of gas is increasing in spite of the fact that gas as a means of lighting has largely given way to electricity.

Ship Offer Made By Dollar Firm

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The shipping board today announced that no bids were received for the sale of the Admiral-Oriental line, under the terms of the second advertisement.

The board further announced, however, that the Stanley Dollar company has offered to buy the six ships outright at $600,000 apiece.

While this is not regarded as a bona fide bid, it will be used as a basis for negotiations. The offer was referred to President E. E. Crowley, of the fleet corporation, for recommendation.

MEMBER REGISTER FORCE IS FATHER

Members of The Register force are smoking high class cigars and eating high priced candy today, the reason being the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Millis. Mr. Millis is office manager of The Register. The little miss was born Saturday evening in the Santa Ana Valley hospital. Little Betty Lee and her mother are reported today as doing nicely.

Students Deny Rotten Eggging Their Teacher

TURLOCK, Calif., Feb. 1.—Students at Hilmar high school have passed resolutions denying they participated in "rotten egg attacks" on Principal Greeley. School trustees have pledged to discharge Greeley at the end of the present term, after a threatened strike by students, who came to the defense of Robert Kinney, ousted instructor.

"Penny Wise Pound Foolish"

How often do we humans try to save a penny and in trying to save it, spend dollars instead. PENNY WISE AND POUND FOOLISH.

Nothing illustrates this better than the way thousands of men and women go about buying a new automobile, especially when they have an old car to trade in.

When a man or woman goes out to buy a new automobile and to sell their old car to the dealer for more money than some other buyer will pay the dealer for it, it's a thousand to one shot that somebody is going to get hooked plenty—it may be the dealer who gets hooked (which is doubtful), or it may be the buyer of the old car (which is also very doubtful)—it is almost a sure bet that you, as the buyer of the new car, are so blinded with the excessive allowance on your old car that you buy an automobile you don't want—can't afford to buy and pay for or to operate and maintain. JUST PENNY WISE AND POUND FOOLISH.

If you were to stand on my salesroom floor and see the men and women who want to get out from under some unwise automobile investment they had made because at the time they bought they were thinking only of the price they were getting for their old car (just PENNY WISE AND POUND FOOLISH), you, too, would think twice before you made a deal because you were blinded by a fictitious allowance on your old automobile.

What is the common sense thing to do—I'll tell you and if you don't believe me, ask any banker. He knows.

First of all, forget your old car for a minute—go out and select and decide on the car you want—a car you can afford to buy, to pay for—a car you can afford to operate and maintain (a car which is the NEW CHEVROLET. Anybody can afford it.)

After you are sure and have decided what car you should buy and can afford to operate and maintain, then and then only, sell your car to that dealer at a fair price, a price that some other buyer will pay for it. For if you sell your car for more than it is worth and buy a car you are not absolutely sure you want just because you are apparently getting a big price for it—YOU LOSE—there is no guess about that—just PENNY WISE AND POUND FOOLISH.

Buy a car that is honestly built and will last for years.

Buy a car that is honestly priced—one that all the fictitious profit has been squeezed out--which is the NEW CHEVROLET.

Buy a car from a dealer whose obligation to you does not begin until you get your new car (that's me).

Buy a good looking, smooth running, easily handled, easy to buy, easy to pay for car, the NEW CHEVROLET.

LENGLEN-WILLS CONTEST AGAIN POSTPONED

Billy Evans Says

On the surface it may appear as if Manager John McGraw of the Giants got the worst of his recent trade with the Phillies, still I am willing to string along with his judgment.

In sending Jack Bentley and Wayland Dean to Philadelphia for Jimmy Ring, McGraw parted with two players who cost him in the neighborhood of $125,000.

Without going into details it would seem that McGraw paid a pretty penny for the veteran Ring who has already seen service with four major league clubs.

McGraw doesn't jump at conclusions. You can wager he carefully considered the proposition from every angle before he went through with it.

I venture to say that McGraw would be frank enough to admit that Dean and Bentley will be far more valuable to the Phillies than Ring. On the other hand, he figures Ring will be a greater asset to him than the two players with whom he parted.

McGraw has it doped that his pitching must be greatly improved if he is to be in the running this season. He prefers a certainty rather than a gamble.

While Jimmy Ring has never had what could be called a big year in the majors, I have always regarded him as a corking fine pitcher.

It is a rather interesting fact that only twice during his career has he finished better than the .500 mark. In 1920 with Cincinnati he won one more game than he lost, while three years later with the Phillies, his wins topped his losses by two games.

Jack Bentley, on the other hand, during his three years in the majors has always been well above the .500 mark. In his first year he won 13 and lost 8, in his second he captured 16 victories against five defeats, while last season his mark was 11 games won and only 4 lost.

However, Bentley is the type pitcher who is most effective against clubs with a certain batting style. Jack wasn't dropped in at random, rather the spots were picked for him.

To illustrate the breaks it is possible for a pitcher to get: Bentley who allowed better than five earned runs per game last year won 11 and lost 4, while Luque, who ranked first in effectiveness, could win but 16 while he dropped 18.

No doubt Dean has been a bitter disappointment to McGraw. He starred with Louisville, the same year Earl Coombs, now of the Yankees, was the big noise in the outfield.

It is said the Yankees and the Giants were the chief bidders for the two stars. Their spirited efforts to land the players caused prices to soar.

I have it that the two clubs at a conference thrashed out the matter, the Yanks needing outfielders worse than pitchers dropped out of the bidding for Dean, while the Giants did the same on Coombs.

At the time, I talked with a number of players from the American association and they all thought the Giants got the best bet in the league. It now looks as if the Yankees got the prize.

Perhaps the earned run column explains why McGraw parted with Bentley and Dean. Allowing the opposition five runs per game won't win many contests unless a pitcher is getting plenty of breaks.

It looks as if the Washington players, American league champs, are concentrating on Owner Clark Griffith.

By his own admission, 23 of his athletes are still unsigned and spring training only a little more than a month away.

There is something almost prophetic in that number, same they all thought the Giants got the best bet in the league. It now looks as if the Yankees got the prize.

"I will start the season with a managerless team of bush leaguers unless Manager Harris and the rest of the holdouts agree to terms," says Griffith from the shade of the sheltering palms in Florida.

Of course he is only kidding, slipping the boys the oil, hoping some of them will fall for it, and get under cover.

Incidentally it is hardly possible that Roger Peckinpaugh will be replaced by Buddy Myers or Muddy Ruel by late, as rumored.

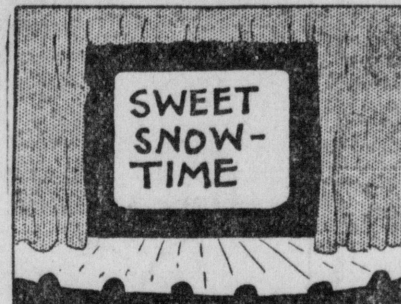

However, holdouts thrive when the snow is on the ground. Spring with its baseball weather often causes them to forget their winter threats.

BOWLING with the CHAMPION Jimmy Smith

FOOTWEAR If anything, too little attention is paid to the legs and feet in the bowling game. Both are big items, however, just as they are in all branches of sport. Keep your legs and feet in shape. Take care of them.

For one thing, don't wear rubber shoes. Nothing will tire you or injure your feet quicker. I've found where some bowlers wearing the "rubbers" started to tire, to feel fatigued after rolling four games.

Furthermore, rubber shoes are apt to "check" your slide as you deliver the ball. Obviously, an "abrupt" slide will throw your body out of position and your ball will lose direction.

I wear elk-soled shoes. I recommend them above any other kind. I've never experienced any trouble with my feet. They never feel sore and my legs never get tired. With elk-soles you can turn in 10 straight games without getting that "worn out" feeling. I can bowl almost indefinitely at one stretch and not notice any ill effects.

NIBS PRICE TO GET U. C. GRID POST, BELIEF

BERKELEY, Calif., Feb. 1.—If the expected action is taken Wednesday night by the executive committee of the Associated students, Clarence ("Nibs") Price will be successor to the late Andy Smith as University of California football coach.

Price, who was Smith's assistant for five years, freshman football and varsity basketball coach as well, has been recommended by the athletic council for the post as chief football coach. While it is known that names of eastern and middle western coaches have been submitted to authorities, college opinion backs Price, it is said.

After U. C. graduation in 1914, Price coached San Diego high school football teams, producing several stars who shone brilliantly in college competition.

Price has been quoted as being strongly in favor of the Smith system of coaching.

KNICKERBOCKERS WIN. NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Using fists, sticks and skates to the greatest advantage, the Knickerbockers and New York A. C. hockey clubs engaged in a free-for-all fight which the "Nicks" won, 4 to 2. The St. Nicks beat the Boston A. A. 4 to 1.

Europe's greatest all-round athlete! That's Charles Hoff, the lean and lanky Norwegian, who is now in our midst on a three month's athletic invasion.

As a versatile performer, Hoff, who is 23, is pretty much in a class by himself. A glance at the records he has established in various events—14 of them—shows his wonderful versatility.

While the lad from Norway has gained most of his fame as a pole-vaulter (he holds the world record for the event), he's also a notable distance runner, high jumper, and a step and jump performer, shot-put, discus, javelin and hurdles.

Close to Best In fact, when an athlete has built up the proficiency in 14 different track and field accomplishments as Hoff has, the matter of locating and nominating his all-round rival is a tough task indeed.

While only one of his marks—the pole vault—is a ton-notch effort, several of the others are close enough to the best to cause a bit of apprehension.

The Norwegian should become a popular performer with track and field followers in America. Far more so than was that other distinguished invader, Paavo Nurmi, the flying Finn. Nurmi was a tall, turn sort of fellow, hard to warm up to. He kept more or less out of the way of his admirers; seemed bent on dodging those who gloried in his feats, those who would pay him homage.

Smiling, Good-natured Hoff is a vastly different type. He's a smiling, good-natured individual, with a splendid personality. Contrary to general belief, he speaks English well, if not fluently. In a word, he should gain unusual favor for an invader during his sojourn.

In case you don't know, Hoff's world record for the pole-vault is 13 feet, 11 13-16 inches. Just shy of the 14-foot mark. Not so many years back 12 feet was considered enough to win any competition. Hoff has cleared almost two feet higher than that and hopes to push the bar a bit more skyward ere he retires.

Call Him "Bamboo" It's fairly easy to see why the Norwegian is the greatest vaulter of them all. To be a star in the event you must, as a rule, have height, long legs, long arms, and not too much weight. In fact, as a prominent coach once remarked, "You almost need to be a living skeleton to star as a pole-vaulter."

Of course, he stretched the point somewhat. But you find it smacks of the truth when you are informed that Charles Hoff is "6-2" and only weighs 147 pounds. In Europe they call him "Bamboo" showing they have a sense of humor over there.

Whittier, Branch Fives Victorious LOS ANGELES, Feb. 1.—Basketball teams from the University of California, Southern Branch, and Whittier College remain undefeated today, having survived their contests in the Southern California conference Saturday night.

CLAIM CLAYES INELIGIBLE TO RUN FOR J. C.

Discussion on the eligibility of Al Clayes, star Santa Ana junior college football, basketball and track athlete, waxed to the point of white heat at a meeting of Southern California junior college coaches Saturday at Fullerton.

The basis for disputing the eligibility of Clayes rested on the point that he has been enrolled for more than four semesters in Stanford, Arizona and Santa Ana.

Already this season, Clayes has been used by Coach Graham Harris in several baseball games. A ruling passed by the junior college coaches provided that an athlete was entitled to compete in two seasons of football, basketball and track. On this ground, Harris contends that Clayes, having participated in but one season of basketball and track, is eligible.

When asked directly if he intended to enter Clayes in the conference track meet, Harris stated that he did.

Further rumblings already have been heard. Harris said he expected another session of the coaches would be held at the call of H. A. Wilson, league commissioner of athletics, before the case is allowed to rest.

Most of the arguing over the eligibility came from Pasadena and Riverside, the two colleges in the league that with Santa Ana are expected to make the best bid for the conference championship. Representatives attended the coaches' meeting from Pomona, Fullerton, Riverside, Pasadena and Santa Ana.

Approval was given the request of Santa Ana to have the date of the conference track meet changed from March 27 to April 3. The event is to be held in Santa Ana and the postponement was asked so that a big home coming day for the junior college could be held with the dedication of the new gymnasium and the track meet as attractions of the day.

Yesterday Miss Wills won her semi-final round match from Miss Peggy Saunders, one of England's best young players, in two love sets. In two tournaments she has played since she arrived here. Miss Wills has won 187 out of 248 games.

Her success in the mixed doubles has not been so pronounced, however, as she was beaten yesterday in the semi-final round. Teamed with Jack Hillyard, England, she lost to Emily Petchell, England, and Allister McCormick, Chicago, at 1-6, 6-4 and 7-5.

Miss Wills took her game very easily during the match and depended upon her service and deep court game.

She lost the first, second and eighth games of the first set, and the first and seventh games of the second set.

HELEN NOT TO PLAY AT NICE; SUZANNE WILL

American Girl, Winner at Cannes, Withdraws As English Ball Selected

By HENRY L. FARRELL (United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Differences of opinion about the kind of ball to be used in the Southern France winter tournaments, it appears from cable reports, may defer indefinitely the prospective meeting between Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, claimant of the women's world tennis championship, and Miss Helen Wills, American champion.

It would not be at all surprising if the two greatest women players in the world did not meet until the British National championships in June and some opinion has been expressed here that they will not face each other across the net until the Olympic matches in Amsterdam in 1928—if then.

The young American champion and the French girl were to have been entered in the tournament starting at Nice today but Miss Wills withdrew her entry when she learned that the slow Slazenger (English) ball was to be used.

After Miss Wills had made known her intention to withdraw from the kind of ball and the managers of the women's world tennis championship, it appears from cable reports, may defer indefinitely the prospective meeting between Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, claimant of the women's world tennis championship, and Miss Helen Wills, American champion.

There is only one standard ball in the United States and it is used for all official tournaments. In Europe there are three or four different kinds of balls and the managers of tournaments can choose any one they like.

The difference between the English ball and the one used in the United States is hard to explain, but by actual test there is a difference of five inches in the rebound when dropped from the same height, the American ball being the more lively.

AMERICAN GIRL CAPTURES GALLIA TOURNAMENT

CANNES, France, Feb. 1.—Miss Helen Wills, American tennis champion, won her second tournament here today when she defeated Mlle. Henrietta Contoslavos, French star, in the final round of the Gallia tournament, at 6-3 and 6-2.

The young American girl played excellent tennis and won easily without exerting herself.

Following the finish of the Gallia tournament a new draw for the tournament was made today to permit the entry of Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, French star, who changed her mind for the third time and decided to enter the singles competition.

Miss Wills, objecting to the English ball, will not play in the singles, but will compete in the doubles and mixed doubles.

Yesterday Miss Wills won her semi-final round match from Miss Peggy Saunders, one of England's best young players, in two love sets. In two tournaments she has played since she arrived here. Miss Wills has won 187 out of 248 games.

(An intimate story of innermost emotions revealed in private letters.)

Conversation Between Paula Perler and John Alden Prescott:

"Why do you run away from me, Paula? Sit down here a moment. I want to look at you. I want to impress your face upon my vision. For, ever since that accident, all I see was horror in your beautiful eyes."

"All right, Jack. Look at me. I'm a little tired now and wish I could go back to my room. I hate personal appearances."

"You ought not to hate them, my dear girl. You are much lovelier than when I fell head over heels in love with you years ago."

"Don't speak of that, Jack. You didn't fall in love with me. You fell in love with love. We both were young and I was adoring, worshipping—you loved the joy that you had with me. But when I became something that must be cared for—a responsibility instead of a play-fellow—you let me go out of your life without the slightest regret. At that time I cursed you. And I said to myself that I hoped some day you would die the most horrible of deaths."

"I don't want that now, Jack. For I have seen Leslie, and I know that under no circumstances could you help falling in love with her. She is the sweetest and best woman I have ever known. She seems to have a sympathy as wide as wanted, and oh, Jack, how I have wanted, how I have needed, sympathy. She will bring up our child better than either of us could possibly have done."

"But why am I sitting here talking of things that are past and dead—things that I never intended to resurrect?"

"You have not resurrected them, Paula. The past can never die while our boy lives."

"Don't say that, Jack. I don't want to talk to you of anything but the barest commonplaces and because involuntarily we will go back to the old days every time we meet, after the picture is taken, I never intend to look upon your face again if I can help it."

"Paula, Paula, what do you mean?"

"Jack, don't you see that you and I are as far apart as the poles? You have Leslie and both your children in your life and I have nothing. Go, Go. I can stand no more."

John Alden Prescott walked away with bowed head and lagging step. Just what he was thinking, no one will ever know, but if his face told the story, his thoughts were far from pleasant.

In a few moments, Paula Perler hunted Sally Atherton at the flower booth and then, from the other side of the thick screen of flowers which had stood behind them, Leslie Prescott arose and wiped her eyes, before she, too, left the place. (Copyright 1925 NEA Service, Inc.)

GETTING MARRIED

MENUS for the FAMILY

By SISTER MARY

Breakfast—Stewed prunes, cereal, thin cream, codfish and potato puffs, cornbread, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Tomato soup, croutons, peanut butter sandwiches, pineapple charlotte, milk, tea.

Dinner—Hungarian goulash, baked corn, stuffed beet salad, peach snow, plain cake, milk, coffee, rye bread.

Hungarian goulash is a savory winter dish that is economical and easy to make. It's also a "dish saver" since it combines meat and vegetables in one dish, making a one-dish meal. The dish of baked corn suggested in the dinner menu is not necessary if the entire family enjoy the goulash. If some members eat the mixture under a protest a dish they do like should be added to the menu such as the one mentioned. Being made with milk and eggs it's nourishing and hearty.

Pineapple Charlotte

One tablespoon granulated gelatin, 1-4 cup cold water, 1-2 cup boiling water, 1 cup sugar, 2 cups grated pineapple, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 cup heavy cream, 2 tablespoons powdered sugar, few grains salt.

Soften gelatin in cold water for five minutes. Add boiling water and stir over hot water until dissolved. Combine pineapple and sugar and bring to the boiling point. Remove from the fire and add lemon juice. Stir in dissolved gelatin. Let stand until cool and fold in cream whipped until stiff and sweetened with powdered sugar and a few grains of salt. Pour into a mold lined with split lady fingers or thin pieces of stale sponge cake. Let stand three or four hours to chill and combine with cake.

Cynthia Holds No Brief For Beautifiers

By CYNTHIA GREY

The high cost of beauty! Let's dissertate on that little text today.

The making of woman's beauty, they tell us, ranks among the first five leading industries of the nation.

A zealous reporter in Cleveland, O., after a painstaking investigation, reveals that that city alone spent something like $7,000,000 last year for woman's beauty!

Beauty shop proprietors tell that women who have "the beauty shop habit" spend regularly at least $3 a week. These are business girls employed at an average of $25 a week.

It is as much a part of the office girl's routine as the daily hour plus for lunch.

How many of us, too, know wives of men making less than $1550 a month who think the shampoo and curl as much of a necessity as beefsteak and ice cream?

Here is a question which has seethed in my mind for many a moon—

Are We More Beautiful?

Are women today really any more beautiful than they were in the days of our mothers or grandmothers, when artificial beauty was sinful?

Yes, I hear the outcry! "What a silly question!" you say. "Don't women keep their youth longer?"

"Has the world ever known a snappier, better dressed, peppier, more alert crowd of women than those of today?"

I admit all this. But I am inclined to believe that the beauty shop is not the answer.

We have had an exalted standard of living all along the line. I know, you know, any number of girls earning $25 a week who wear a different outfit to work each day of the week.

Women demand more today, and get it. Of course they look better than their female ancestors. But I am still reluctant to admit that actual beauty is any greater.

And, to meet the argument of woman holding her age better today against I doubt that the beauty parlor has much to do with it. Again it is the changed viewpoint, the finding of a "world full of a number of things" even for those growing old in years.

Admi it's "Bunk"

I happen to know any number of beauty shop proprietors and operators who, confidently, admit that "It's all the bunk."

Have you ever perused the old plush family albums? You laughed at those funny clothes of long ago. But did you ever carefully study the women's faces? Faces of a certain tranquility and calmness and peace. It was restful just to look at them.

I devoutly believe that the less complex life of the generations ago made for more beauty than our present hectic running for appointments and the doing of "the one more thing to be done."

There stood the birthday cake in the middle of the table

Calamity Jane's birthday party was a jolly affair.

She never guessed a word of what was going on until the Twins escorted her to the dining room of Mister Havalook's house where all the guests were waiting.

There stood the birthday cake in the middle of the table, that black Dinah had made, with its one pink candle burning brightly in the middle.

Miss Calamity, for all of her battered condition, was only one year old.

"Many happy returns!" cried all the dolls heartily as she entered.

"Oh, thank you all so much," said Calamity, proudly smoothing her wedding veil. She had it draped jauntily over one eye to hide the fact that her eyes didn't match.

DON'T SPOIL YOUR SKIN

We should pay more attention to keeping the complexion perfect and less to methods of salvaging it after it has been wrecked. Practically every woman can attain a really fine and perfect skin: it is only carelessness or lack of knowledge that prevents it. Those who can't have good complexions in spite of regular care, are only those who work long hours under bad conditions, or a few very ill people.

A well treated digestion, a normally functioning body, and cleanliness—and there you have the formula for a good skin. Don't freeze up your digestive organs by too many ice cold foods and drinks; don't fill yourself with acids and poisons by clogging up your system with starch. Don't go to bed with face powder, rouge, lip cream or plain ordinary dirt on your skin; cleanse the complexion not only of the surface grime, but the pores of all that has worked into them. This means hot water and soap, or cold cream, or both, as a bedtime treatment.

Est foods that help the skin: whole wheat bread because it has bran in it; fresh greens like lettuce, and cooked greens like spinach, kale and such things, because of their valuable salts; fresh fruit and cooked fruit, and carrots, which are especially good for the skin. Drink buttermilk or sweet milk if you can digest it sweet. Take laxatives if you must, but try to regulate your diet, so that medicines are not needed.

Besides this, get enough fresh air daily to keep you fit. Walk a little each day, and walk fast; dawdling along won't do much good. Take at least a dozen long, slow, deep breaths of fresh air, either as you walk, or standing by an open window. You must not think this helps your skin, but it will, because it fills your blood with oxygen, and fresh, pure blood will keep your complexion clear.

Clumsy Ann—A simple exercise for reducing the ankles is as follows: Hold first one knee and then the other, and then rotate the ankle in each case from the ankle and not from the knee. Massage will also reduce the fatty portions of the ankles so vary the exercise with this.

Underweight D. J.—The best fattening food is milk, taken frequently.

Too many sweets will ruin your complexion.

ly during the day at regular times. The milk should be as rich as can be assimilated, even to the best grades with some cream to it when it can be taken. In a diet of this kind, start with one or two quarts a day and work up to four.

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

NO. 19—THE PARTY

There stood the birthday cake in the middle of the table

Calamity Jane's birthday party was a jolly affair.

She never guessed a word of what was going on until the Twins escorted her to the dining room of Mister Havalook's house where all the guests were waiting.

There stood the birthday cake in the middle of the table, that black Dinah had made, with its one pink candle burning brightly in the middle.

Miss Calamity, for all of her battered condition, was only one year old.

"Many happy returns!" cried all the dolls heartily as she entered.

"Oh, thank you all so much," said Calamity, proudly smoothing her wedding veil. She had it draped jauntily over one eye to hide the fact that her eyes didn't match.

The Medical Society of Maryland was incorporated Feb. 1, 1816.

Today is public holiday in republic of Honduras, Inauguration Day.

Today is birthday anniversary of Warren S. Stone and Prof. G. Stanley Hall.

NEURITIS

[Nerve and Muscular Pains]

Its Cause and Correction

Common sense tells you that to treat an ailment effectively, you must first find out something about it—what it is, what causes it.

Yet the average person with neuritis will go at the matter blindly, will shift from one treatment to another, very often doing more harm than good. Is it any wonder that a case of neuritis will drag on for year after year, without the sufferer experiencing relief?

What Is Neuritis? Medical science defines neuritis as inflammation of the nerves. It may arise from a number of causes—a cold, bruised nerves resulting from a blow or fall, errors in diet—many others. And when the nerves become inflamed, they remain so until proper corrective measures are taken.

The Eopa Treatment There is just one method of correcting neuritis—by restoring the affected nerves to their normal, healthy state. This cannot possibly be accomplished through rubbing, nor by medicines containing narcotics which give temporary relief but leave the nerves in a worse condition than before.

To overcome neuritis permanently, the weakened nerve tissues must be strengthened, built up. And that is exactly what Eopa Neuritis Tablets do. Eopa Neuritis Tablets are an ethical remedy. Absolutely safe. Free from narcotics, bromides and coal tar products. Write for free Health Booklet—The Eopa Company, 880 Folsom Street, San Francisco, Dept. A-31

TIED, RETIED, UNTIED

When Mrs. Elsie Sears and Felix Brandes walked into a peace justice's office in Salinas, Calif., and asked to be married they were met by a janitor. Not wishing to see the judge lose his fee and believing that he could do the job fairly well, the janitor assumed a judicial air and tied the knot. Three days later the couple discovered the hoax and they were remarried. A month later Brandes got the marriage annulled because, he said, his wife only considered him the fifth of her "experimental husbands."

Important State Y. M. C. A. Matters To Be Discussed

Important measures, affecting the general policies and administration activities of the Y. M. C. A. in California, will be taken up at the forty-fifth annual meeting of the state association, to be held February 12 and 13 in Sacramento, according to Ralph C. Smedley, general secretary of the Santa Ana association.

Delegates from Santa Ana to the state association meeting include O. H. Barr, A. J. McFadden, Harry W. Lewis, A. J. Crookshank and R. C. Smedley.

According to the new constitution adopted at the state convention last year in this city, the annual meeting of the state association is now called "the State Council of the Young Men's Christian Association of California," Smedley explained.

Listed as speakers on the program are Chief Justice William H. Waste, of the state supreme court; Capt. Robert Dollar, prominent capitalist and shipping man, of San Francisco; Judge John J. McNab, of San Francisco; Albert E. Roberts, of New York City, and Dr. Tully C. Knoles, San Francisco.

Police News

C. M. Featherly, who resides at the Y. M. C. A., reported the theft of a spare tire and rim from his automobile, Saturday. The machine was parked near the Y. M. C. A. at the time.

The Hamilton

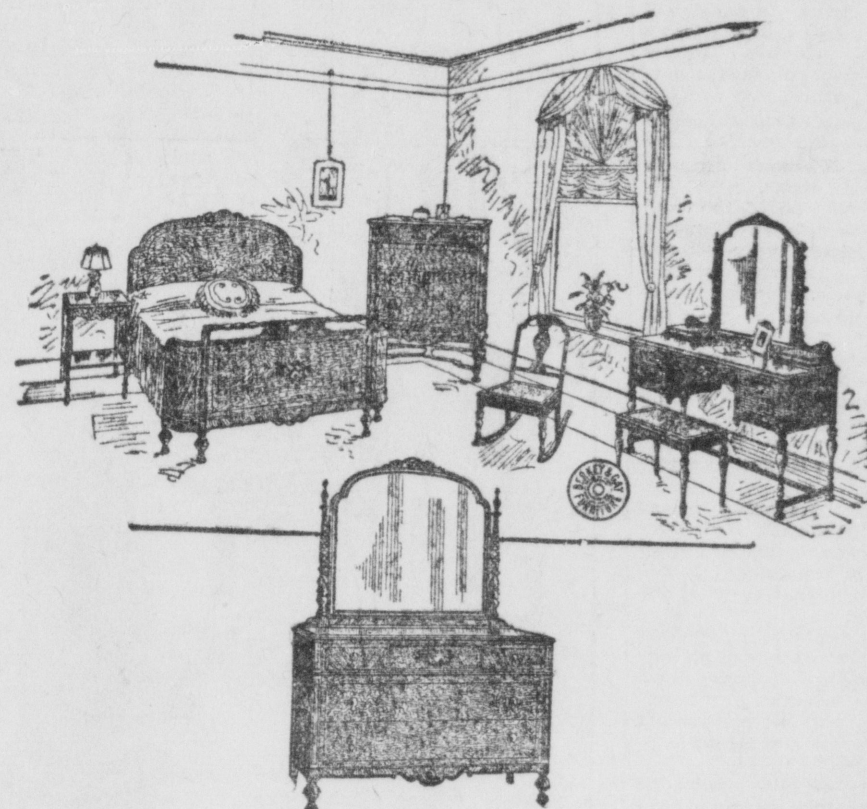

WHILE ALEXANDER HAMILTON, a lad of 23, was serving as private secretary to General Washington, and later at 32, as first Secretary of the United States Treasury, the vogue of Hepplewhite's furniture styles had reached its zenith in England.

In the "Hamilton" Chamber Suite, Berkey & Gay designers have faithfully reproduced the charm of these early Colonial-Hepplewhite pieces.

Such native woods as curly maple, maple burl, walnut, and selected gumwood have been used in fashioning these pieces. The tops and sides of the cabinet pieces are of walnut with a butt walnut figuring, on the bow-end shaping of the bed, and also on the top outside drawers of the chiffonier and bureau. The center drawer is of maple burl further embellished with a hand-painted floral decoration. Curly maple is used on the drawers of the toilet table, the foot and head boards of the bed, and the larger drawer fronts of the chiffonier and bureau. Maple is used for the carved mirror supports and rail of the foot board, while the legs, posts, and other solid parts where strength is more important than elaborate grain figuring, are made of selected American gumwood.

All drawers are made of solid mahogany, with the exception of the bottoms, which are three-ply to prevent warping; they have been carefully finished to prevent the soiling of linens and clothing, and are thoroughly dust-proof. Sliding partitioned trays for pins and nicknacks will be found in the bureau, while a plate glass tray for assistance in the toilette will be found in the toilet table.

A varnish finish, carefully rubbed and shaded by hand to a velvety smooth gloss, gives a rich, mellow tone to the various woods, and is also in keeping with the spirit of the design. The hand-painted floral decoration is a distinctive feature of all of the pieces, with the exception of the bench.

TARIFF LEAGUE IS REFINANCED FOR BIG FIGHT

By C. B. DODDS
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Acting on the belief that one of the greatest tariff battles in American history is definitely in sight, the American Protective Tariff League, which has had little to do in the last year or two, has been refinanced and reorganized and is preparing for the worst.

This league is a leading protagonist of tariff protection in the country and it is always in the forefront of tariff battles. High tariff men are not a little worried over the recent article by a Washington news writer, in which he pictured President Coolidge as a "moderate tariff" man and not a "high tariff" man. The protectionists are hoping the picture was inaccurate and they believe it is. Nevertheless, they have in their mind's eye the change that came over McKinley during the latter months of his administration, in which he revised his tariff ideas to fit the prevalent political exigency. They believe, however, that President Coolidge is not a political opportunist and that he will not shift his sails to conform to new political winds.

What is causing the tariff league more worry than anything else right now is the organization of importers to fight for a reduction in and the elimination of tariff rates. Most of the importing fraternity are part and parcel of the Republican party. Their views on the tariff may run counter to the views of the American manufacturer and farmer, but the solid business views of the Republican administration has drawn them into the party. They now plan a fight within the party for at least a modification of the Republican tariff program.

California will be one of the first states hit by any tariff modification. This is due to the fact that many California commodities are grown in no other state, or possibly only in Florida, in commercial quantities, so that the other 47 states are paying tribute to California because of the tariff. This factor was the hardest obstacle faced by the California delegation during the long fight for the California rates in the present law.

California congressmen and senators are being besieged with propaganda on two bills now pending in congress that is taxing the capacity of their office forces to the limit.

The bill increasing the pension of Spanish war veterans and widows of veterans is bringing literally hundreds of letters to each member of the delegation.

The other source of the deluge of mail is the bill providing for the draining of the Klamath swamps for the benefit of ducks. Judge by the size of the mail in Senator Johnson's and Senator Shortridge's offices, every veteran of the Spanish war living in California has written in urging favorable consideration of the measure.

Through co-operation and organization, the Hawaiian sugar and pineapple planters are spending five times as much as the government appropriation for farm experimental work in Hawaii at a private station. The work of the planters is so complete and thorough that government experts are turning their attention to other things rather than the two principal crops of the island territory.

Agricultural experts in the employ of the government say they wish that the complaining Iowa farmers would organize and co-operate with the same success found in California and Hawaii.

The intensity of solar radiation has been accurately measured, according to Prof. Charles F. Marvin, chief of the weather bureau.

Professor Marvin recently announced that he just finished a calculation showing that a beam of solar radiation having a cross-section of a square decimeter contains enough heat so that if it were converted into electric lights it would maintain 2700 50-watt electric lamps. He said a square decimeter was about the size of the average room in a house.

This radiation, he said, is constant, but much of it is dissipated when it reaches the outer atmosphere of the earth. If it were not dissipated, the climate on the earth would be constantly getting warmer.

The total direct cost of the foot and mouth disease in California in 1924 amounted to $6,082,000, according to an estimate given by Dr. John R. Mohler, chief of the bureau of animal industry. This burden was borne equally by the state and federal governments. The indirect losses from the outbreak were estimated at $25,000,000. The animals slaughtered were: Cattle, 58,302; sheep, 28,382; swine, 21,135; goats, 1280. Appraised value of animals slaughtered was $4,091,192.51.

Japan has adopted the policy of developing and manufacturing its military airplanes in government-owned factories, according to information just made public by the naval intelligence service.

American naval officers in Japan report that the development of aircraft has reached a point where the Japanese navy hopes to design its own types of planes, based on the best foreign practices, and that they will be better able to experiment with such designs in government-owned and controlled factories than in commercial factories.

This policy is diametrically opposed to the American plan, which provides for no manufacturing of airplanes in government plants, the former naval manufacturing airplane factory having been closed down.

MAY LET PIER FRANCHISE AT BEACH TONIGHT

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Feb. 1.—City trustees probably will take action tonight on the letting of a franchise to persons who have applied for permission to install and operate a boat landing at the end of the municipal pier. Three applications are already on file with the city clerk, and tonight, C. H. Warner, of Compton, is expected to appear before the city trustees and present a new proposition.

Warner, according to explanations offered a number of local persons, wishes permission to build the boat landing himself, standing all the expense and absoving the city from all blame from accidents, in return for an exclusive franchise to use the landing for a number of years. The boat landing would be built under the direction of the city engineer, according to Warner. The Compton man plans to appear before the city trustees tonight to present his plan.

Legion Head To Give Brea Speech

BREA, Feb. 1.—State Commander Allen Bixby, of the American Legion, will be in Brea, Tuesday, visiting Post 181, according to an announcement by Ted Craig, commander of the Orange county inter-post council.

Bixby will be the guest of Post 181 at dinner and will afterwards address an open meeting in the Brea grammar school auditorium, to which the public is to be invited. Officers and members from the eight legion posts in the county have urged their comrades to take advantage of Tuesday night's opportunity to hear the state commander, and a special effort is being made to have as many ex-service men as possible hear Bixby's message.

DRILL NEW OIL WELL ON LAND NORTH OF BREA

BREA, Feb. 1.—The Birch Oil company, on its property north of Brea, has the cement foundation in for its No. 1-A, within a short distance of its No. 8, a fine producing well. Derrick erection was scheduled to start today.

Attempts to put No. 2-A on production have so far failed and Superintendent Joe Royer has his own men now washing the well in another effort to get the oil. If this fails, the well will be drilled deeper, as it is now an acknowledged fact that there are several unexplored deeper sands in the hills north of Brea.

The General Petroleum corporation today began hauling the material to the site of its No. 7 well on the Thompson lease in the Richfield district. Bird & Allen, general contractors, of Brea, will build the derrick.

JACKMAN WRITES ABOUT SEVERAL CITY MATTERS

Editor Register: If, as claimed by the Trustees, there is "insufficient funds to properly operate the various departments of the city government," it is of interest to the constituents, through the Register, why it was necessary at this time to buy three Buick automobiles—a touring car for the police department; four-door sedan (save the mark) for street department; and a roadster for water department, at a cost of $4,490?

Also, if it was necessary to the welfare of our people, that their house numbers be painted on the curbs in front of all houses in the city, these to cost 25 cents per number? There are other matters of like import, that could be named in this connection.

The ornamental lighting system was given an "airing" by the trustees recently, and from reports, it is of interest to that portion of the public who watch and interest themselves in such matters. A personal inspection of the system was made a few days ago, and doubtless it will be of interest to many persons, to learn what the investigation disclosed.

In the evening, just after the lights were turned on at 5:25 the lamps were 100 per cent lighted, including the 12 lamps on 8 standards at Broadway and Fourth, and 16 lamps on 8 standards at Broadway and Fifth, and 12 lamps on eight standards at Fifth and Main.

In the morning, just before lights were turned off at 6:15, the lamps on Main north of Sixth, were 68 2-3 per cent dark. On Fifth street, the lamps were 50 per cent dark. And on Broadway the lamps were 100 per cent light; this from 5:25 p. m. to 6:15 a. m., 12 1/2 hours lighted, is certainly of no benefit to the general public after 11 or 11:30 p. m.

If these lamps and standards were properly distributed, and all ornamental lights in the system turned off at 11 p. m., and the old system of swinging lamps installed at street intersections, as was before, and these turned on at the time ornamental lights are turned off, we believe fully one-third more territory could be accommodated with ornamental lights, without adding to the cost of electricity now used.
